LOTTERY DECIDES DRAFT ORDER

'ROVING HIPPIES' SOUGHT . . .

Suspects Named In Tate Murder

Los Angeles (UPI) — A man and two women described as members of a nomadic desert commune were identified Monday as suspects in the bizarre murders of actress Sharon Tate and four other persons Aug. 9.

Police Chief Edward Davis told a news conference that the suspects were part of a "roving band of hippies" who also allegedly killed a middle-aged couple one day later across town from the luxurious estate home of Miss Tate in Benedict Canyon.

Warrants were issued for Charles D. Watson, 24, now in custody in McKinney, Tex., and two women suspects. Patricia Kernwinkel, 21, was arrested Monday in Mobile, Ala., and Linda Kasabian, age unknown, was being hunted in New Mexico.

'Gave Himself Up'

Watson was taken into custody Sunday night. Sheriff Tom Montgomery of Colin County at McKinney said, "You could kinda say he walked in and gave himself up." The suspect was described in Texas as clean-shaven and neat, although Los Angeles police said he was long-haired and bearded while living in the desert commune.

Davis said it was expected that four or five other persons would be indicted for the murders next week.

They were said to be in custody in Inyo County, Calif., where two months ago 26 young men and women living a roving life of thievery were rounded up by a sheriff's posse.

Davis confirmed that the Tate murders Aug. 9 were linked to the double-slaying of a wealthy owner of a small grocery chain and his wife in the Silverlake district of Los Angeles a day later.

There werre gruesome similarities between the two cases. The word "Pig" was smeared in blood on the front door of the Tate residence. The words "Death to Pigs" were written in blood on a refrigerator door at the home of Leon and Rosemary La Bianca. The word "War" was carved in La Bianca's chest.

Davis said members of the commune, which had religious overtones, were living at the Spawn Movie Ranch, an abandoned movie set northwest of Los Angeles, at the time of the murders. Then they moved to the Barker Ranch in Death Valley.

Deputies said the group seemed to operate as an updated Indian raiding party — traveling in dune buggies, camping in abandoned mining shacks, stealing as they went.

Lookouts Posted

They roamed by night and posted lookouts equipped with walkie-talkies during the day. The men wore shoulder-length hair. At the time of the raids, some of the girls were clad only in bikini bottoms and others were nude.

Sheriff's deputies, guided by a spotter plane, picked up 15 youths near Badwater Oct. 10. Six more women and five more men were arrested Oct. 12 in a raid on the same camp.

Two babies were taken to Inyo County Hospital for treatment for malnutrition.

The motive for the brutal slayings remained a mystery. Davis said the victims did not know the suspects, although the killers had visited the home leased by Miss Tate and her husband, Roman Polanski, some time prior to the killings.

Sept. 14 Is First Number Drawn Out Of Glass Jar

. . . CONGRESSMAN PULLS OUT FIRST SLIP

Washington (AP)—The first draft lottery in 27 years was held Monday night, sending men born on Sept. 14 to the head of the line for 1970 draft calls. Next come April 24, Dec. 30, Feb. 14, and Oct. 18, in that order.

The first birth date number was drawn by Rep. Alexander Pirnie, R-N.Y., ranking Republican on a special House subcommittee on the draft.

Others will be called in the order in which their birthdays were drawn Monday night, until the local boards throughout the nation fulfill their 1970 draft quotas.

All As Of Dec. 31, 1969

The list drawn Monday night applied to all men between 19 and 26 years of age as of the end of this year.

Only those classified 1-A or 1-A-O will actually be called.

But men now deferred or exempt would retain their place in this order of call should they later become 1-A or 1-A-O, that is, available for the draft.

The lottery began at 7 p.m. CST when, after a brief invocation, draft director Lewis B. Hershey ordered the unlocking of a black box containing 366 blue plastic capsules and ordered them poured into a large glass jar.

After Pirnie started the drawing, he was succeeded by a relay of young people previously named as unofficial advisers to the Selective Service System.

A young Negro from the District of Columbia, David L. Fowler, refused to take his turn. He said he had been notified by his delegation not to draw, for reasons that would be explained later.

Fourteen of the Youth Advisory Committee signed a statement expressing "deep concern" over handling of the drawing.

Larry McKibben of Iowa, held up the proceedings to read the statement, which protested the "total exclusion of two individuals" from Michigan and Alaska who were not among the advisory members who drew.

About 25 college age youths waited outside Selective Service headquarters to protest the lottery. They handed out a statement calling the lottery "a masterful practical joke on the American people."

Now they said they will have to burn their birth certificates as well as their draft cards.

Inside each capsule was a slip of paper bearing a date, one for each of the 365 days of the year, plus one for Leap Year's extra day, Feb. 29.

The slips of paper had a gummed back, for pasting on a large blue board at one end of the small auditorium.

From 1 to 366

The board, prepared in advance, displayed a list of numbers from 1 to 366, each followed by a blank space to receive a date drawn from the bowl.

To determine his place in line for the draft next year, each draft-age man in the nation has only to find his birthday among the scrambled list of dates, and to take note of the number next to it.

Starting in January, each draft board will begin calling men for military service on the basis of that list.

The first ones called will be the men with birthday matching the date next to No. 1. Next come those whose birthday matches No. 2, and so on.

By the time most draft boards have worked their way half way through the list — into the middle or upper 100s — they will probably have all the men they need for their 1970 quotas.

Men with birth dates drawn early in the list can be almost sure of receiving a draft notice next year; men with middle-range numbers may have to wait all year to see if they are drafted; men whose birthdays are drawn late in the list, next to numbers in the 200s or 300s, probably will not be drafted.

Every man in the country who reaches the age of 19 but not 26 by Dec. 31, 1969, will have a place-in-line number determined by Monday night's drawing.

Drawing Annually

Each year, while the lottery system continues, a new drawing will be held, assigning place-in-line numbers to a brand new group of men—those who reach the age of 19 during that year.

That group will be the draft's prime target for the following year, while the men who have already faced the draft, in 1-A classification, for one year without actually receiving their draft notice will move into a safer category.

They could, legally, still be drafted — but only if the draft uses up all of the new group of 19-year-olds first. And the White House says that is unlikely.

Tie-Breaker

Washington (AP) — If two or more men registered with any local draft board share the same birthday, they will be subject to call in an order determined by a second lottery drawing held Monday night, in which letters of the alphabet were scrambled. Here is the "tie-breaking" order of call, in which the initial of each man's last name and first name if necessary will be matched with a scrambled alphabet:

'Green Areas' Win Initial Council Okay

The Lincoln City Council Monday gave preliminary approval to a plan for planting either trees or shrubbery on 13th St. at the site of the new First National Bank building.

Public Utilities Director Robert Obering told council members during a pre-council session that the "green areas" would extend into the curb parking lane at two points, one near the bank building and one north of that spot.

Obering was given permission to go ahead with the plans providing a final design is worked out with businesses along the west side of 13th St.

The remainder of the curb lane will be used as an unloading zone and for a bus stop, he said.

The plan is a compromise from an earlier request of Murdock Development Corp., owners of the new bank building, to plant trees in the sidewalk along 13th St.

City officials, had indicated they believed that the sidewalk is not wide enough to allow use of part of the sidewalk as a green area.

Obering added that the four parking spaces proposed by City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger for that part of 13th will not be installed.

The City Council must still formally act on a resolution which would permit the proposed plan.

Man Arrested In Hit-And-Run Injury Accident

A 38-year-old Lincoln man was arrested by police Monday night in connection with a hit-and-run injury accident at 27th and Vine Sunday afternoon.

Police said the man was arrested at his home and was being held for arraignment in Municipal Court.

Injured in the accident was Delbert C. Mutchie, 47, of 2705 Vine, who suffered facial cuts, a concussion and a leg fracture when hit by a car which left the

Draft Lottery Generally Pleases Youth Advisory Unit

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Members of Nebraska's youth advisory committee on the Selective Service System appear generally pleased with President Nixon's new draft lottery system which began to function Monday night.

Among those who were willing to express their personal opinions at this time, there was also general agreement that military service should be made more attractive to volunteers, but that the draft system should be retained.

A number of the members of the advisory unit named by State Selective Service Director Col. Lee Liggett preferred not to talk about their own views until the full committee has made its formal recommendations to Washington.

By January

Dennis Hetherington of Lincoln, committee chairman, said the recommendations should be forthcoming by January.

Hetherington, a Navy veteran and student at the University of Nebraska, said he will withhold his own views until that time.

But Curtis Wiltse, 22, a senior at Union College in Lincoln, praised the Nixon lottery plan as "a much more equitable system" than that which has functioned for the past 27 years.

"I would say I am pretty much in agreement with what the President has outlined," Wiltse said.

Archie Godfrey Jr. of Omaha, a 25-year-old Air Force veteran, now an insurance salesman, also "favor the lottery system, somewhat as it stands now."

The lottery is "certainly preferable" to the old system, William Wehrbein agrees. Wehrbein, 21, is a senior at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

"One of the strong points of the lottery system is that young men should be able to plan their future," he pointed out. "Under the old system, it was impossible to make plans."

Wehrbein, who holds a 2-S student deferment, wants to go to graduate school next fall. Wiltse has a 1-Y medical deferment.

Brent Skinner, 20, a Univerity of Nebraska junior, believes the lottery plan is "about the most equitable means" for operating the draft system.

"Surprised"

"I'm surprised and pleased that it passed so quickly. I really expected nothing to happen."

Skinner also holds a student deferment at the present time.

Godfrey and Wehrbein both think the present deferment system should be altered.

"It's my pet peeve," Godfrey admitted. "Everyone should have to take their chances. Everyone should have an equal chance."

"More Just"

Wehrbein believes the deferment system should be changed "to make it more just for everyone."

Among committee members who have not yet formed their opinions on draft law change is Lyn Wallin, a 17-year-old coed at Westside High School in Omaha.

"We've all got lots of ideas, but I'm rather undecided so far," she noted.

J. Mark Bronson of the University of Nebraska and James Noecker of Wayne State College prefer not to discuss their views until the committee's recommendations are made.

Delay Of Inquiries On Draft Urged

Nebraskans who may be subject to the military draft were urged by the state's Selective Service director Monday to avoid attempting to get any early information on their status under the new lottery system from their local draft boards.

It will take at least a couple of weeks for local boards to re-establish their files and make new status determinations of Selective Service registrants, Col. Lee Liggett said.

The state director said that until information on the national lottery is received by local boards, and local boards can make necessary changes in their files and call-up procedures, no point is served by a registrant making inquiry.

Col. Liggett indicated that state headquarters and local boards already have received numerous inquiries which they are not yet in position to answer.

Local boards have not yet even been given their January draft quotas, he noted.

'Consolation' Planned For Lottery Loser

At least one men's residence group at the University of Nebraska Monday night had arranged a consolation prize for the draft lottery "loser" among its members.

Each of the students contributed to a pot which was then given to the member whose birth date was drawn first in the lottery.

"It's to pay for his going-away party," one member explained.

Beame Disputed

Albany, N.Y. — Representatives of commerce and banking disagreed with Controller-elect Abraham D. Beame on the need for loopholes in the state's tax structure while giving testimony to an assembly committee that hopes to reform the state's tax laws. The special interest groups said the loopholes were needed to induce money into the state, while Beame said the loopholes cheat the state and overburden the middle class.

Senate Votes To Trim Oil Depletion Allowance

World News

Washington (UPI) — The Senate voted to cut the oil depletion allowance from 27.5 to 23% Monday — the first reduction it has ever approved on the tax provision that is worth $1.5 billion a year to the petroleum industry.

By decisive margins, the Senate beat back attempts by oil state senators to retain the allowance at its historic level and by tax reformers to cut it down to 20%, the level approved by the House last summer.

The Senate's action assured that the depletion allowance would be reduced for the first time since its creation in 1926. But the final size of the reduction was left to a House-Senate conference committee which will seek to reconcile the differences between the two chambers' versions of the tax reform bill.

62-30 And 52-38

By a 62 to 30 vote, the Senate first rejected an amendment to the Senate's tax bill which would have rejected the bill's provision reducing the allowance to 23%.

Then, by a 52 to 38 vote, it also rejected an amendment by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., the Senate's chief economizer, to bring the allowance down to 20%.

By deciding to accept the Senate Finance Committee's cut to 23%, the Senate would raise taxes on the oil industry by about $175 million a year. A cut to 20% would have cost the industry $400 million.

In all, the depletion allowance is worth an estimated $1.5 billion a year to the industry. It permits an oil firm to exempt from federal taxes 27.5% of its gross income or 50% of its net profits, whichever is smaller.

In a third key vote, the Senate decided 64 to 25 to leave untouched depletion allowances, ranging from 23% to a 4%, which are granted on more than 100 other minerals.

These range from gold and uranium to sand, gravel and clamshells.

Cuts in those allowances would have cost their producers $55 million more in taxes every year. The cuts had been approved by the House. Williams urged the Senate to override its Finance Committee and accept the House action.

Liberals had battled for years to cut the allowance, which Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., characterized as "a fantastic bonanza." He said any tax reform bill which did not cut it would be denounced by Americans as "a phony, a fake, a pretense."

But Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., who sponsored the amendment to retain the allowance at its present level, said every motorist in America would pay three to five cents a gallon more for gasoline if the allowance is cut.

Proxmire disputed Ellender and said the depletion allowwance permits the oil industry to pay taxes at a rate of 7.7% of its profits compared to the average of 43% paid by all other U.S. industries.

Curtis, Hruska Vote For 27½% Allowance

Washington (AP) — Nebraska Senators Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska, both Republicans, voted Monday for an amendment to retain the oil and gas tax depletion allowance at its current 27½% rate. The Senate rejected the amendment, 62-30.

Curtis and Hruska voted against an amendment, defeated 52-38, to cut the depletion tax allowance to 20%.

NO, IT'S NOT SANTA CLAUS

Firemen haul and tug to lift Roy Booker from the chimney of a Los Angeles restaurant. They were summoned by a nearby gas station attendant who said Booker's 16-year-old son was seeking equipment to free his father from the chimney. Booker was booked on suspicion of burglary.

Sen. Mundt Suffers Stroke

Washington (AP) — Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., has suffered a partially incapacitating stroke and his condition is considered serious though he is not in danger, his office said Monday.

Mundt, 69, has lost partial use of his right arm, has difficulty walking and speaking, and will be in Bethesda Naval Hospital for at least six to eight weeks, said a statement by his administrative assistant, Robert L. McCaughey.

There has been no thought, another aide said, of the senator giving up his office.

McCaughey said his statement was based on the opinion of Mundt's physician, Dr. Rufus J. Pearson.

Thanksgiving's Toll Is 686

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents killed 686 persons over the long Thanksgiving holiday weekend, a total that the National Safety Council called "encouragingly short" of its estimate for the four days.

The council had expected 700 to 800 deaths on the nation's streets and highways between 6 p.m. Wednesday and midnight Sunday.

"Although the number of deaths attributable to needless highway crashes is much too high, it is always heartening when the total killed is under NSC's estimate and substantially below last Thanksgiving's record-breaking total of 764 deaths," Howard Pyle, council president, said.

Sappers Foiled At Cam Ranh

Saigon (AP) — Slipping in under a mortar barrage, Viet Cong sappers hurled dynamite charges into a U.S. Army compound at Cam Ranh Bay — considered the most secure base in South Vietnam — but caused only light damage, U.S. spokesmen reported Monday. Three Americans were wounded.

The sappers, demolition experts especially trained to carry out lightning raids, apparently did not accomplish all they had set out to. The military spokesman said base defenders held the enemy force pretty much at bay with helicopter gunships.

Fifteen unexploded dynamite satchel charges were found inside the base perimeter, the officers reported.

It was the third sapper strike against the base in less than four months.

First 2 In August

The first two attacks in August hit an Army convalescent hospital where more than a dozen buildings, including several wards, were damaged or destroyed. Two Americans were killed and 76 wounded.

The latest attack by an unknown number of sappers was aimed at an Army combat support unit a few miles from the hospital.

There were no reports of enemy casualties.

U.S. spokesmen said the attack began just before midnight with a 10-round mortar barrage.

Miniguns Help

Charging under the covering fire, a number of sappers broke through the compound's wire perimeter, but were driven back by American defenders with the help of the helicopter gunships blazing away with rapid-firing miniguns, reports said.

Headquarters said the action ended in the early morning hours Monday when the last of the sappers withdrew.

Until the sapper assaults of August, Cam Ranh Bay, 195 miles northeast of Saigon, had not been attacked for nearly a year. It's security was considered so good that former President Lyndon B. Johnson visited there twice during trips to Vietnam in October 1966 and December 1967.

On A Peninsula

Located on a 15-mile-long peninsula, the base is occupied by Navy, Air Force and Army personnel.

Elsewhere in Vietnam, only light and scattered action was reported.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command announced that American military strength in South Vietnam has dropped below the mark of 480,000 men for the first time in two years. Strength had reached a peak of 543,400 men in April. This has been reduced under President Nixon's program for withdrawal of some U.S. military personnel.

In the new breakdown of manpower, the command listed these figures: Army, 331,800; Marines, 56,900; Air Force, 58,800; Navy 31,500, and Coast Guard, 500. Not included in the manpower figures are 28,000 U.S. Navy men and 600 Coast Guardsmen serving on ships off the Vietnamese coast.

If Bombing Hadn't Stopped, War'd Be Over, Westy Says

Washington (AP) — The Army's top general says the war probably would be over if the bombing of North Vietnam had not been halted, but he wouldn't resume it now and he accepts President Nixon's policy.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says he thinks this policy can lead to a South Vietnamese victory, but if it doesn't he cannot rule out entirely a new U.S. escalation of the war, short of the use of nuclear weapons.

These views of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, former American commander in Vietnam and now Army chief of staff, and Laird were given in secret in October to a House appropriations subcommittee and released by the subcommittee Monday.

Laird testified that the Vietnamization of the war "could lead the way to a military victory in the sense of the South Vietnamese being able to defend their country, even against North Vietnam."

Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., asked Laird if he forsees the possibility of renewed allied escalation of the war if Vietnamization and the Paris peace talks fail and North Vietnam escalates its military effort.

The secretary replied: "I would not rule out that possibility completely."

More Efforts Are Taken For Obtaining Boxcars

By The Associated Press

New efforts to increase the number of railroad grain cars available for transport of Nebraska's bumper corn and milo crops were reported by the State Railway Commission Monday.

Commission member Fred N. Peterson said he was contacting members of the Nebraska Congressional delegation, urging their continued efforts to induce the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue exclusion orders on grain cars owned by the Burlington and Union Pacific Railroads.

An exclusion order requires other railroads to return boxcars to the owner railroads immediately upon unloading.

Peterson last Friday wired the ICC asking it immediately to issue such orders. Copies of the telegram were sent Monday to Nebraska's two U.S. senators and three congressmen with a note that "your continued efforts and assistance to induce the ICC to grant this order will be of immeasurable benefits."

Available Car 'Unsuitable'

Meanwhile, officials of the Union Pacific and Burlington railroads advised state officials that refrigerated railroad cars, said to be in surplus supply in parts of the country, are not very suitable for grain hauling.

The Railway Commission had noted last week that the Railway Express Agency reportedly had between 1,400 and 1,500 refrigerated railroad cars in the state of Michigan which were not being used and which would be leased by the railroads serving Nebraska. The commission asked the railroads to explore the possibility of utilizing them.

A railroad spokesman in Omaha explained that doors of such cars are too narrow and too short to allow elevators to conveniently use fill spouts to load the cars. Many also have interior partitions which prevent filling the car, and specialized racks on the floors. He said considerable remodeling would be necessary to adapt the cars.

Hruska Seeks Hardin's Help In Relieving Boxcar Shortage

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin has been asked by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., to take steps to ease the boxcar shortage.

Reports reaching his office, discussions with other senators from Midwest states and consultation with agencies of government, Hruska said in a letter to Hardin, all demonstrate that this year the problem is the worst in history.

Hruska said the railroads are unable to furnish an adequate number of boxcars to carry the grain.

Despite efforts of the Interstate Commerce Commission to remedy the situation, he said, it has become worse, not better.

Hruska recommended that the problem be considered by the recently created Rural Affairs Council so as to identify the causes of the problem.

Also recommended was a review of the farm storage facility loan program to determine how it can help relieve a chronic crisis of storage following harvest.

Urges Insurance Check

Hruska suggested an investigation of whether types of insurance can be made available to farmers who must assume the risks of loss while their grain sits on the ground awaiting storage or shipment.

He also recommended coordination with the ICC to devise year-round consultation among the grain industry and others.

Performance Record Need Told To Nebraska Cattlemen

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Clay Center — Nebraska cattlemen attending the Nebraska Beef Improvement Association meeting here Monday were told that cowboy arithmetic and barndoor records will no longer do the job in the cattle industry.

Stressing the importance of records was Glenn Butts of Joplin, Mo., secretary of Performance Registry International, who told the cattlemen they can no more get along without performance records than they can pull a plow by hand.

Butts said that profits are escaping the cattleman who uses a poor sire.

"We now know that 90% of the genetic improvement is due the sire. Here is a real opportunity in using records," said Butts.

Butts said that record keeping in the cattle business is also showing that there can be $70 difference in the retail cut-out of meat from animals of the same weight.

He said the future of the cattlemen depends upon "economical production and profitable marketing."

Evaluation Programs

Dr. Frank Baker, chairman of animal science University of Nebraska and secretary of the Beef Improvement Federation, told the cattlemen that records are accepted today.

He noted the work being done on national sire evaluation programs which he termed "important studies."

Members of the NBIA discussed publishing a directory and a possible program where interested cattlemen could secure more information on performance testing for beef cattle.

NBIA officers are: Bill Roesch, Whitman, president; Roger French, Mullen, vice president; and Ken Messersmith, Alliance, secretary.

NBIA members toured the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center near here as part of their program and heard a progress report from Dr. Keith Gregory, director of the center.

Mechanic Killed In Freak Mishap

Roseland (AP)—A garage operator was killed in a freak accident at his place of business in Roseland Monday.

Sheriff Robert Johnson said 64-year-old Ozro Stiles was found dead beneath the Roseland Ambulance Unit vehicle. He apparently had been dragged about 110 feet.

The sheriff said Stiles had been working on the ambulance at his garage when the vehicle rolled and dragged him along. The body was found in a ditch beneath the ambulance when members of the unit came to pick it up.

Near $18,000 Said Missing; Plan Charges ... In Madison Co.

Madison (AP) — The Madison County Board of Commissioners reported Monday the state auditor's office is investigating a shortage of funds in the county sheriff's office.

County Attorney Milton Ellwood said he has been working with the state auditor since Nov. 7 and "as soon as complete audit reports are furnished and studied, I expect to file charges against a former member of the sheriff's office staff."

State Auditor Ray C. Johnson said a study of information collected at Madison the past month will not be completed and a report compiled for another six or seven days.

The commissioners had said earlier in the investigation the amount missing probably would amount to between $15,000 and $18,000. This was understood to be delinquent tax collection funds.

One Resignation

Since the investigation began one person has resigned from the sheriff's staff, and a former employe has returned to help on a temporary basis. But Sheriff Burt Ray Jr., said Mrs. Ray will take over the office work until the discrepancy is "cleared up." Ray said he was shocked about the shortage, but he had been "patrolling nights all summer" and "did not have much to do with the office work."

Picket Files $500,000 Suit Against Plant

Dakota City (AP) — A wounded picket filed suit for $500,000 in Dakota County District Court Monday against Iowa Beef Packers, Inc., and an Allen, Neb., man for injuries suffered in an altercation at the plant's main gate here the evening of Nov. 21.

Frank Kneifl, South Sioux City lawyer, filed the petition for Raymond Gonzales, 24, the plaintiff who remains hospitalized in Sioux City with two bullet wounds in the abdomen. His condition is described as good.

The suit named Iowa Beef Packers, Inc., and Howard Brentlinger Sr, of Allen as defendants.

The suit alleges that "while exercising his federally and constitutionally protected rights the plaintiff was wrongfully, unlawfully and maliciously and intentionally shot twice in the abdomen by the defendant, Howard Brentlinger, who was then in the course of his employment on the premises of Iowa Beef Packers."

The complaint alleges nine specific charges against Iowa Beef Packers.

Gonzales' petition charges that the defendant, after first conferring with an officer of IBP, drove his vehicle toward the main gate and veered to the left, attempting to drive into some pickets who had congregated for a change of picket shifts. The suit says the defendant's wife used vile language on the pickets; that she opened the door on the passenger side and attacked a picket by kicking him.

The petition says that when the "kick was returned" the defendant got out of his car, retreated to IBP property at the rear of the vehicle and fired five pistol shots at the pickets. The suit says the plaintiff suffered severe and permanent injuries to his person and to his nervous system.

Burns Are Fatal To 79-Year-Old

Omaha (AP) — Funeral services were Monday for Frank W. Hansen, 79, Omaha, who died Friday of burns suffered in an explosion and fire at his home Oct. 8.

Mr. Hansen received third-degree burns over much of his body when gasoline he was using to burn trash in his yard exploded and burned, a relative said.

Work Resumes On Cooper Plant

Omaha (AP)—Construction resumed Monday at the Cooper Nuclear Station at Brownville, but a contract dispute remains unsettled, Leonard J. Schaefer, business manager for Laborers' Local 1140, said Monday.

Schaefer said the union will abide by a court injunction issued Friday in Nemaha County, but the union contends that Blount Bros., an Alabama firm with the superstructure contract, is not living up to its agreement with the local.

David Weinburg, union attorney, said one point of disagreement is the hiring and pay practices of subcontractors working under Blount.

Mother, Daughter Rites Tuesday; Killed In Texas

North Platte (AP) — Funeral services will be held in North Platte Tuesday afternoon for two former Nebraskans, who died in an auto crash near Amarillo, Tex., Friday.

The services will be for Mrs. June Chick, 46, and her daughter, 22-year-old Janis. They were the wife and daughter of Dr. Nicholaus Chick. The family moved to Texas from North Platte about three years ago.

Ira Paisley, 74, Dies After Attack

Alliance (AP) — A veteran Garden County rancher, Ira S. Paisley, 74, of Oshkosh, died of an apparent heart attack Monday while attending the "On-Top Hereford Sale" here.

Survivors include his wife, Daisy; three daughters, Mrs. Duffield Jones of Trinidad, Colo., Mrs. Glen Calhoun of Leota, Kan., and Mrs. Frederick Johnson of Lewellen, and a son, Ira R. of Oshkosh.

Brad's sister, Kristine, 9, holds the silver pitcher awarded to her brother. The reserve grand champion steer, also a crossbred, was produced by an Angus bull and a Hereford cow. It is a junior yearling shown by Gary Hullinger of Stromsburg, Neb.

Dry Weather Hastens Harvest Operations

By the Associated Press

The Nebraska harvest moved rapidly last week where fields were dry enough to operate combines, government crop observers said Monday.

About 13% of the corn and 6% of the sorghum remained to be harvested while the harvest normally is nearly complete at this time of year, said the weekly crop report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

The report said moisture content of the grain continued at a rather high level with most of the grain needing to be dried before going into storage.

Farm and commercial storage facilities are practically filled with grain, a considerable quantity has been placed on the ground and some spoilage is reported where the grain had not been dried, the report said.

Nebraska News

Harvest of sugar beets and dry beans was in the cleanup stage, the report said, and processing of the sugar beets was making fair to good progress.

Fall plowing, disking and shredding of stalks gained momentum during the week and many livestock had been turned into harvested corn and sorghum fields to clean fallen grain and obtain forage.

Moisture Supply Good

Wheat and rye continued in good condition with soil moisture supplies very good and pastures and ranges open and providing fair to good grazing for livestock.

Livestock continued in good condition with higher temperatures favorable for young calves and pigs. Fed cattle made good gains during the week.

Holiday Weekend Traffic Fatality Toll Reaches 6

By The Associated Press

Six persons lost their lives in traffic accidents during the long Thanksgiving holiday weekend, another died Monday and a ruling was awaited on a possible addition of another name to the toll.

The deaths raised Nebraska's 1969 traffic death toll to 383, compared with 423 on Dec. 1, a year ago. Last year, the state counted four traffic deaths during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Fronzo Nelson Jr., 16, Omaha, died in a hospital Monday of injuries suffered Friday when his car went through a guard rail and plunged 45 feet from an Omaha viaduct. Police said it took about 30 minutes to remove him from the wreckage.

Tim E. Haggard, 16, of Ogallala, died about midnight Sunday of injuries suffered earlier in the day in a one-car accident in Ogallala. The State Patrol said he was alone in the car.

Allen Otteman, 13, of Pender, was killed Saturday in a car-train crash about one mile west of Pender on Nebraska 51.

The State Patrol said the car in which the boy was riding was driven by his mother, Mrs. Sharlene Otteman, 33, of Pender. Mrs. Otteman and three other children in the auto were hospitalized at Pender.

Fred Ball, 92, of Crete died in a Lincoln hospital Saturday of injuries suffered last Monday in a two-car collision at a Lincoln intersection. The accident happened before the counting period and was not counted against the holiday toll.

At Mitchell authorities said the body of 71-year-old George Frazy was found Saturday in the wreckage of his car north of Mitchell on Nebraska 29. The State Patrol said the body apparently had been in the wreckage since Friday night.

It appeared that Frazy's car went out of control and overturned, ending up partly submerged in water, officers said.

The patrol said the cause of death was not determined immediately and no decision had been made on whether it would be listed as a traffic fatality.

November Deaths Set New Record

A total of 55 persons died during November on Nebraska highways setting a new record fatality toll for the month, the chief of the State Accident Records Bureau said Monday.

Tom Ryan said the 1969 November total exceeded the previous high of 46 deaths in the same month in 1962.

The all-time record for any month, Ryan said, was 57 deaths in August of 1964 and 1965.

Delayed reports could push the month's total beyond that record mark, he said.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

On this page yesterday, Tom Wicker of the New York Times discussed a new proposal for controlling industrial wastes. And in the Lincoln Sunday Journal and Star, a story appeared in regard to the awakening among youth groups to the growing challenge of ecology, a relatively new word which refers to mankind's entire environment.

Everywhere you look these days, there is a growing emphasis on our environment. In a recent trade publication, a conservation reporter for a large metropolitan daily chided the press for its failure to adequately cover the biggest story of this or any other day — the deterioration of our environment.

Sitting here in Nebraska, it is a little hard to get worked up about the environment. We walk out of the house in the morning and fill our lungs with good, clean air. We turn on the tap and a fresh, cool drink of water fills our glass.

★

But that, my friends, is about as far as it goes, even right here in Nebraska. If we dug a little deeper, we might find some things to alarm us. There are streams in Nebraska so polluted from industrial wastes that they are useless except in serving as an open sewer.

Right here in Lincoln we are still dumping raw sewage into Salt Creek, and sanitary sewer facilities are perhaps the biggest industrial growth problem we have. Not even Omaha has an air pollution problem that could compare with New York or Los Angeles but we have polluted air throughout the state.

And what about crowding? We have our fair percentage of that but do not notice it so much only because of our relatively small size. Some resources such as timber we do not have in abundance and our soil has been relatively well taken care of.

But anyone who thinks Nebraska has no pollution problems does not know what he is talking about. Our pollution of the water alone is sufficient cause for alarm. Beyond that, air pollution is growing and overcrowding in our urban areas is a reality that shows promise of getting only worse.

★

It is most fortunate that the people of this nation are beginning to stir themselves in behalf of conservation of all our natural resources. There are many experts in the land who pointedly tell us that we are destroying the world.

There are many who believe that mankind has placed itself on a treadmill to destruction and that it is already too late to change it. We find this idea very hard to believe, despite the multitude of facts that might be cited in support of it.

But we are also of the opinion that if we do not change our ways, we will pass precious little of value on to our grandchildren. It is true that life itself is the greatest gift we have, but one cannot stop there.

One cannot say that he is alive and, therefore, everything is right. There are conditions of living under which life itself really is not much of a blessing. Life in suffering and hardship may not be preferable to death.

★

The one thing that will move our public bodies to take a realistic approach to all problems of our environment is a constructive attitude on the part of people. Only the people can move government to provide the funds, for instance, with which the knowledge we need can be obtained.

It is people, then, who would have to move the government to provide the funds for carrying out the programs our study showed to be essential. We cannot go on polluting our air and our water and dissipating many others of our natural resources and never expect to pay a penalty.

Once we destroy these things, they are gone. It would not be like the buffalo, for instance, which was once nearly extinct but which has now been saved.

The air we breathe and the water we drink are essential to every minute of our lives. If we destroy them, we have no time left in which to correct the situation.

The President's Choice

President Nixon, having said he will send to the Senate the name of a conservative as his nominee to sit on the Supreme Court sometime in January, is again going through the selection process.

He is known to be thinking about the possibility of putting a woman on the high court—a black lady New York lawyer and the Texas federal judge that swore in Lyndon Johnson as President are under consideration.

So is the head of the American Bar Association. The names of U.S. Senators who are also lawyers—John Stennis of Mississippi as a case in point—have been mentioned, although there is a Constitutional provision which bars an elected official from accepting an appointment to the court during the same term in which the salary of the post is changed. The salary for Supreme Court justices has recently been increased.

Aside from the constitutional question then, a logical move for the President to make, and one not entirely out of the question, would be to nominate Nebraska Sen. Roman Hruska for a chair on the court, as former governor Frank Morrison has suggested with tongue in cheek.

The President wants a conservative, which Hruska obviously is, and he doesn't have to pick a southerner, as is Haynsworth. The Senate looks kindly upon its own members, so confirmation would come much more easily. Hruska has done yeoman work on the Senate Judiciary Committee and as ranking Republican on the committee he fronted for the President during the Haynsworth affair.

It is not a widely known fact, but Hruska turned down feelers from Nicholas Katzenbach about the possibility of filling a vacany on the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals during the Johnson administration. Would he similarly reject an offer to sit on the high court? The political considerations are likewise interesting.

Brick And Mortar Needs

It isn't what you would call good news, but the report by consultants on the outmoded physical plants at the Penitentiary and Men's Reformatory is the kind of thing you have to face. The report pointed out that the plants have outlived their usefulness both in terms of years and in terms of concepts.

Perhaps one reason is as good as the other for replacement purposes but it is the concept which should motivate us the most. Otherwise, we will reap only half a harvest when the time for building actually arrives.

Certainly, there should be no question that it will arrive, not today or tomorrow but in the very near future. Such a renewal program should be started by the 1971 Legislature, at the latest.

From every informed source comes the report that our concepts of incarceration have to change, for the sake of human decency and for the sake of society as a whole. We are doing ourselves no favor by locking men up and making out of them human beings unfit to live in the community at large.

We are doing ourselves no favor by so destroying human beings that they end up behind bars for the most part of their lives. Rather, we should have institutions that, as well as the protection of society, are concerned about the return of men and women to society as productive and normal individuals.

We cannot do this with physical plants that have only one thing in mind — the incarceration of the criminal. Such a plant dehumanizes the individual when we should be attempting to refine that individual's humanity. The consulting report on new Penitentiary and Reformatory facilities is timely and correct.

The Judgment

Lincoln, Neb.

American justice is predicated on the maxim, "innocent until proven guilty," and I should think a political science teacher would have some respect for that predication. Innocence and guilt should be based on fact and not emotion.

Was Dr. Raphael Zariski there? Was he an eye-witness? Does he have all the facts? Can he sift the facts from the propaganda and the news media's sensationalism? Does he really think he is wise enough to sit on his throne at the university and judge the boys in Vietnam as "desecrators of our flag"? Was he as quick to denounce Hanoi, or did he forget to sound off when they slaughtered thousands?

I'm sick and tired of the educated elite who are the saviors of our nation (they think) sitting there and condemning the nation, the boys fighting to protect the elite saviors who use every loophole to evade the draft, skip the country, take over universities by use of guns, shout down every respectable speaker in our nation and then scream "foul play" when someone speaks out for the other viewpoint.

How does Dr. Zariski know that it is the "silent majority" who is applauding the weakness of a few or that it's the "silent majority" who doesn't stand up for "right against wrong"?

This nation may not always have been right by, by damn, we haven't always been wrong, either. There are several prosperous nations that are living testimony of the goodness of America. No worthy cause or nation in distress has asked for the help of the Americans and gone home empty-handed.

So why doesn't Dr. Zariski quit shouting "murderer" and listen to some of the goodness of America — and no one should ever condemn our boys on the firing line while he is here in our beautiful country, warm, well-fed and safe from Hanoi, all secured by taxpayers' money.

Thin Line

Lincoln, Neb.

The line between war and crime is a thin one, distinguishable only by the code of soldier and civilian, combat or peace. The revelation of an entire town's being destroyed is as irrelevant as holding a flight squad guilty during a blitzkreig. There has always been a penalty for being a spy or traitor, for fraternizing with the enemy, and the line separates between loyalty and principles, and again, between country and survival. In war, as in peace, to err is human, but whether forgiveness is divine or not, only God knows. Man may judge in logic or patriotism, yet wars have never been won because of humanities, but human frailities, despite their resolves.

Cities and towns are desolated by fire, floods, earthquakes, also politics, greed, lies and crime. Civilian crime can be murder by ill treatment, negligence, substandardization in mental and penal institutions. Tyranny and injustice are confined to no creed or color.

The extension of the racist policy in America has simply manifested itself in wartime. What possible good could come from exposing American troops, while covering up, condoning and encouraging the same conduct here among civilians? Is this expose timing a means of defeating racism, as a red herring to use racist sympathy as a means and way of sidling out of responsibilities and obligations at home in which racism and rioting were used to gain political immunity to democratic theory and conduct, which evidently led to warfare in the first place by courting communist tactics and which will not lead to peace by moratoriums and candlelight in the hands of the sources that framed up the whole mess in the first place back in 1948?

Gifts Needed

Lincoln, Neb.

The Beatrice State Home Association for Retarded Children is again conducting a drive for gifts to assure a happier Christmas for residents of the Beatrice State Home. About one-third of the patients at the home do not have families to visit them or send gifts. It is only through the support of civic clubs, churches and individuals that these residents receive gifts.

Gifts for all ages are needed but particularly for adults. Lists of special needs or information on "adopting" individuals or wards or information about providing Christmas entertainment in the wards may be obtained by writing the Beatrice State Home, Beatrice, Nebraska. Gifts or money for the purchase of gifts may be sent directly to the state home.

We are grateful for the continued support of the people of Nebraska.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any diagnostic benefit from heart catheterization other than to determine the possibility or advisability of having heart surgery? Is it considered an operation? About how long does the procedure take? What degree of risk is involved? — E.S.

Best way I can answer this question is to say that heart catheterization can provide quite a few types of information which cannot be as accurately determined by any other method.

Deciding whether heart surgery is advisable is very often the principal purpose, but this is not necessarily always the case.

The procedure is to insert a catheter, or supple tube, into a vein, usually in the arm, and slide it gently upward through the vein. As veins lead ultimately to the heart, that is where the catheter will go. By watching with a fluoroscope, the doctor can see exactly where the tip of the catheter is at any time.

Analysis of blood samples can give very exact figures on the amount of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the blood at strategic points. Pressures inside the heart chamber can be determined.

With these and other data, it is possible to determine with considerable accuracy the condition of various valves in the heart, the location (if any exist) of defects in the septum (dividing wall between the left and right side of the heart), or other conditions interfering with efficient heart action.

In a word, it is possible to know some of these important facts exactly, rather than having to deduce from sounds (the stethoscope) or the overall shape of the heart (X-ray).

Yes, such catheterization is regarded as a surgical operation, with strict operating techniques — sterility, anesthesia, etc.

It takes at least an hour.

Degree of risk? Small. But as I have said before and will doubtless say again, no surgical procedure can be regarded as totally without risk. The idea of having something inside the heart sounds perilous, but it actually is not. The catheter is soft, pliable, and smooth, and does not damage the heart tissues which, in any event, are pretty tough. They have to be, to perform their duties — somewhere around 100,000 heartbeats a day!

When the catheter is withdrawn, the only incision to be closed is the small one made to admit the catheter into the vein. So when you analyze the facts, the danger is far less than, evidently, you supposed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been advised to have four small meals a day, being troubled with colitis. I am puzzled as to just how to get a balanced meal. I am 77. — Mrs. A.L.H.

Balanced DIET is important; balanced MEALS are not. Eating foods that, every day, will give you the nourishment, vitamins, and minerals you need is what we mean by a balanced diet. But it doesn't matter at which meal you get them.

For example, most folks have the healthy habit of getting their vitamin C, in the form of citrus or tomato juice, at breakfast, but it would be just as healthful if they preferred to have their juice at some other meal.

You need protein, carbohydrate, fruits and vegetables, plus some cereal in one form or another, and a little fat every day. These essentials can easily be distributed into four meals instead of three.

If your doctor hasn't explained it fully enough, you can get help from dietitians giving meal-planning help at hospitals, Visiting Nurse Associations, and health departments.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard that if a woman has her first child when she is around 40 the chances are that the child will be retarded. Is this true?—K.J.M.

No. There is a slightly greater than average risk, but this is just a matter of percentage points. This is true whether it is a first child or the 15th.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Mitchell Is Seeking Morgenthau's Ouster

WASHINGTON — Attorney General John Mitchell, who is supposed to be a champion of law and order, will seek the resignation of the nation's most effective U.S. attorney after January 1. Mitchell has confided to friends that he will renew pressure upon Robert Morgenthau to resign as U.S. attorney for the Southern District of New York.

Of the 93 U.S. attorneys, the soft-spoken, mildmannered Morgenthau is regarded as the best. He has more the look of a milquetoast than a relentless prosecutor, but his crackdown on crime has thrown a scare into the New York underworld and business world alike.

Morgenthau fiercely believes that law and order will be undermined if the rich and the powerful are permitted to get away with violations. He has coupled his drive against organized crime, therefore, with a campaign against corporate crime.

He has taken on the New York Stock Exchange, Internal Revenue Service and the all-powerful Wall Street financial community, bringing indictments against the exchange president for alleged tax fraud, financiers Louis Wolfson and Roy Cohn for alleged stock manipulations and 170 IRS employes for alleged bribery and corruption.

Mitchell would like to replace Morgenthau with Whitney North Seymour, Jr., who could be expected not to ruffle the fat cats. For Mitchell is more eager to enforce law and order in the streets than in the nation's paneled executive suites.

Morgenthau's term doesn't run out until June, 1971, but the law states that "each United States attorney is subject to removal by the President." Mitchell tried to pressure Morgenthau into resigning immediately after the Republican takeover, but the polite, preoccupied Morgenthau isn't the sort who can be easily pushed. He simply went about his work, paying Mitchell no heed.

Now the attorney general is threatening to invoke the presidential clause, if necessary, to remove Morgenthau.

NOTE: Though a Democrat, Morgenthau has prosecuted Democrats and Republicans with equal vigor. He has a reputation for being both fair and fearless.

Not only do criminals terrorize the Washington ghettos, causing the crime rate in the nation's capital to soar, but a few trusted police officers apparently have now joined the criminals.

One detective already has been arrested for allegedly sneaking secret information to a Mafia-run heroin ring. The Washington police are also quietly investigating reports that three other officers have been operating in the netherworld of narcotics peddling.

At least one officer — possibly more — reportedly confiscated hard drugs from pushers, then sold the seized drugs on the criminal market.

Europeans Slow To Sit In Judgment On America; Task Of Leadership To Provide Strength Of Unity

LONDON — Europeans might be expected to take some grim satisfaction these days at the troubles of their rich and powerful ally across the Atlantic. But the Vietnam massacre reports, on top of all the other recent American tragedies of violence and social conflict, have in fact produced almost no such schadenfreude.

The sickening stories of what happened at Song My have not evoked the suggestion that Americans are an evil people. The episode is rather seen as a reminder that there is a dark side to all human beings, to all societies.

The people of Europe have experienced that darkness so recently in their own countries that they cannot but acknowledge its existence. Frenchmen of sensitivity remember torture in Algeria. The British have on their consciences brutality in India and Ireland and other colonial outposts. The German examples of savagery need no reminder.

☆ ☆ ☆

But it is not much of a solace to Americans to know that other people have been guilty of inhumanity. For we thought we were different. We thought we had crossed the ocean to escape from the old tyrannies and found an idealistic society. We thought man's fate since the fall would be overcome in America.

We learned all that in school. Of course there was a good deal of hypocrisy in the lesson. Few of us stopped to think our civilization was established in North America by the mass slaughter of Indians. Or to understand the cost of slavery, to whites as well as blacks. Or to consider the significance of the periodic waves of intolerance that have swept what we think of as an open society.

To recognize the bad in ourselves with the good, to see ourselves honestly, would be healthy for the United States in the end. Only children and stunted adults live in fairy tales. Growing up is good for countries as well as individuals.

But the process of learning to know oneself can be painful for a society as for a person. There is a temptation to deny the unpleasant truth, to attach blame to others, to pick out scapegoats. But that way, in conditions of stress, lies national hysteria.

☆ ☆ ☆

The task of American leadership today, therefore, is to give us the strength to face the darkness in ourselves. Strength of that kind is nourished by unity. No leader can make all Americans agree on particular policies, for Vietnam or any other problem. But a leader can encourage mutual understanding sympathy.

That conception of our need makes the recent posture of the Nixon administration seem, from a distance, strange and dangerous. To all appearances men close to the President, with his approval, have set out deliberately to inflame mutual suspicion and division in the country.

There was the attorney general of the United States predicting and, some would have thought, provoking violence in an anti-war demonstration — and then insisting afterward, in the teeth of the facts, that it had been violent. There was the vice president teaching some Americans to hate and fear others — and fastening at least on that familiar object of political paranoia, the press.

☆ ☆ ☆

The slowness of the administration's reaction to the massacre allegations also raised questions. Once the charges had been published, a high-level statement of concern and determination to find the facts was obviously essential if an impression of callousness or evasiveness was not to get abroad. Yet it was a week before the first real comment from a high official — Secretary of Defense Laird's forthright reply to Senator Fulbright that he was "shocked and sick" at the charges — and two more days before a statement from the White House.

The facts and the implications of the incident at Song My are now surely going to be fully explored, and that will make the need for unifying political leadership in the United States even greater. In any such investigation there lurk temptations to find scapegoats, to seek political gain from a national disaster. But the risks are awful.

Europeans know the danger of trying to govern a country by dividing and frightening its people. Those were the tactics of the right in the Dreyfus case, and the resulting bitterness permanently scarred the politics of France; those were the tactics of the Nazis. In the long-run, any people must seek the answer to their troubles not in others but in themselves.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"Could you help me out, Rollo? — I need a co-signer."

Brandt Calls For British Market Entry

The Hague (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt threw West Germany's full weight behind Great Britain's bid for Common Market membership Monday, and at the same time presented an ambitious plan for strengthening the European Economic Community.

"Our choice is between a courageous step forward and a dangerous crisis," Brandt said at the opening of a summit conference of Common Market nations.

"The nations of Europe are waiting for and urging our statesmen to place the will for success side by side with the logic of history. Europe needs our success."

The summit was convened at the request of President Georges Pompidou of France, who had been expected to offer fresh ideas for Europe's future. But it was Brandt who took the initiative among the leaders of West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

Brandt urged creation of a European reserve fund, a timetable for economic and monetary union, increased sharing of technical and scientific attainments, and cooperation in foreign affairs.

The chancellor also made it plain that Germany wanted no more stalling on the long-standing request of Britain, Ireland, Norway and Denmark to join the Common Market.

'Steps Expected'

"The German parliament and public do not expect me to return from this conference without concrete arrangements regarding the community's enlargment," Brandt said.

Then he added, "This question has kept us occupied for years . . . and I feel that we must not put this matter off any longer."

He proposed that negotiations begin next spring.

Nothing new emerged from Pompidou's opening declaration. He repeated France's insistence that a "definitive" arrangement for financing farm prices must be fixed before the end of the year.

Then, he said, France would be willing to discuss measures to strengthen the Common Market and open it up to new members. But he cautioned against bringing in the candidate nations at the price of having the community "weakened" or "crumbled."

He urged that the six define a common aim, preparing a community position before beginning talks on enlargement.

Ex-Senator Indicted For Accepting Bribes

Washington (UPI) — A federal grand jury Monday indicted former Democratic Sen. Daniel B. Brewster of Maryland for accepting $24,500 in bribes from a mail order house to influence his votes on postal rate laws.

Brewster, 46, last reported at his wife's home outside Dublin, Ireland, was charged with accepting the money from Spiegel Inc. of Chicago, allegedly to sway his "action, vote and decision on postage rate legislation" while he was a member of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

The indictment against the wealthy member of the Maryland horse racing set, defeated last year in his bid for a second Senate term, was announced by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

5 Payments Alleged

Spiegel and his Washington lobbyist, Cyrus T. Anderson, were charged in the U.S. district court in Washington with making five payments to Brewster, all but one in 1967.

Brewster, a decorated Marine Corps veteran, was charged in four counts with receiving payments "in return for being influenced in performance of his official acts in respect to his action, vote and decision on postage rate legislation which might at any time be pending before him in his official capacity."

In a fifth count, Brewster was charged with receiving a payment "for and because of official acts performed by him in respect to his action, vote and decision on postage rate legislation which had been pending before him in his official capacity."

If convicted of the first four counts against him Brewster could receive up to 15 years in prison and a fine of $20,000 on each count. The fifth count carries a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

'Improprieties' Denied

(In Chicago, Spiegel denied it was ever "involved in any improprieties" with Brewster. "No officer, director or employe of the company has been named as defendant in any of the charges contained in the indictment returned against the company in Washington, D.C.," a company spokesman said.

("The company openly and legally made contributions during certain years to various committees in Wasington, D.C., under provisions of the District of Columbia laws, after seeking and obtaining the advice of eminent legal counsel," the Spiegel spokesman added.)

The last postage rate increase was approved by Congress in 1967, raising all rates except those for parcel post. Spiegel, one of the nation's largest mail order houses, is a major user of parcel post and direct mail advertising.

The House-passed bill was sent to the Post Office and Civil Service Committee on which Brewster served in October 1967 and was approved the following Nov. 21. A committee aide said Monday there were no records on votes within the committee.

Haynsworth Said Staying On 4th Circuit

Washington (UPI) — Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. has decided to remain on the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals despite the Senate's rebuff in denying him a Supreme Court seat, informed sources said Monday.

The report came as both the White House and Judge Haynsworth himself, in Richmond, Va., announced that President Nixon will meet at the White House Thursday with the man he unsuccessfully backed for the high bench.

Haynsworth said he had requested the meeting in a letter to the President, and that his decision now would not be announced until after that session.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said of the letter: "It was not a letter of resignation. The judge, as far as I know, has not made a decision as to his future."

11 Isolated; Exposed To Lunar Dust

Space Center, Houston (AP) — Eleven persons were quarantined Monday after a "containment fault" accidentally exposed them to moon dust at the Lunar Receiving Laboratory, officials said.

Officials said the 11, including seven scientists, would join the Apollo 12 crew in quarantine inside the laboratory.

The scientists were identified as Dr. Robert Smith, U.S. Geological Survey (USGS); Dr. Cliff Fondell of Harvard; Dr. Ed Chao, USGS; Prof. J. Zahringer of Max Plank Institute, Hamburg, Germany; Rya Davis, Brookhaven National Laboratory, Long Island, N.Y.; Dr. Robin Brett of the Manned Spacecraft Center, and Russ Harmon, of the laboratory staff.

Others quarantined were Pratt Johnson, John Allen, James Martin and David Moore, all employes of a laboratory contractor.

All persons exposed to moon dust, until it is proved harmless, go into quarantine with the astronauts.

Seventeen persons, including Apollo 12 astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Alan L. Bean and Richard F. Gordon Jr., already were in quarantine as a part of the normal procedure.

Pollution Panel To Adopt Rules

The State Water Pollution Control Council will adopt a set of rules of practice and procedure by Dec. 12, Health Dept. attorney Gary Snowden said Monday.

Snowden said the rules would then be reviewed by the attorney general and the governor before being filed with the secretary of state's office.

He said the council should have enacted the guidelines in 1959 under the administrative procedures act, but the requirement was only recently brought to the council's attention.

Snowden conducted a hearing on the proposed rules Monday, but no one showed up.

Cost Analyst 'Fired,' Laird Says

Washington (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says the Air Force cost analyst who disclosed the $2-billion C5A cargo plane cost overrun "was fired" — but had a chance to take on new Pentagon duties.

Laird said he had asked A. E. Fitzgerald to prepare a paper on how he could be useful to the Defense Department as a whole but indicated the paper did not lead to a new assignment.

"That paper was presented to me," Laird said, "and really the conclusion was that he did not want to be in any kind of staff position. He wanted to be in an operating position and he felt that he could not make a great contribution in my particular area."

Laird made the disclosure in testimony released Monday by a House appropriations subcommittee.

Laird said Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans Jr. made the decision to phase out Fitzgerald's job along with 856 others to cut costs and Laird said he supported that decision.

"Was he fired?" asked Rep. George Andrews, D-Ala

"He was fired," Laird replied.

"Did his disclosure have anything to do with his being fired?" Andrews asked.

"The secretary of the Air Force has assured me that it did not," Laird said.

Shortly after Fitzgerald reported the C5A cost overrun to the House-Senate Economic Committee last November it was learned the Air Force canceled his civil service status on grounds it had been granted to him by mistake.

Laird said Fitzgerald had been fired in the same sense as the other 856 people whose jobs had been phased out. He said some with civil service status would be reassigned but noted Fitzgerald does not have that status.

Only umpty-ump shopping days until Christmas says the morning paper. It's a note of warning. Buy now. Tomorrow you may get caught in the elevator crush.

Well, here's a brisk, bright day. Cinnamon the kitten is murdering a fallen leaf. I mean torturing it to death. Grrrr. She walks away pretending the leaf is dead. Turns. Pounce!

Not dead yet, eh? Playing possum, eh! Take that! And that!

I mean, in such homey surroundings, don't threaten me with short times before Christmas.

Umpty-ump days? Why that's a world of time, my good man. Buzz off.

The flying game has changed. We take off this morning on the new Boeing 747. Seattle to New York — the oversize air bus that will pack 390 passengers.

It will take 16 of 20 stewardesses to coffee, tea or milk this mob.

("I suppose they'll have the prettiest stewardesses they can find on this press flight," said the Brownie leader "I surely hope so," I said heartily. Well, no use giving the full dialogue. On and on, far into the night.)

☆ ☆ ☆

I said: "All these stewardess types are married these days." And that's the everloving fact, Maxwell.

Used to be stewardesses were not permitted wedded bliss. The airlines felt the male commuter should look on these flying angels as a challenge.

(I challenged a few in palmier days. But all she did was bring me back a pair of the pilot's wings they give to children.)

Still, it's part of the business to write these things. By hard work I found that stewardesses must wear girdles. But girdles (unlike uniforms) are not tax deductible.

The federal courts decided stewardesses might wear the girdles off-duty. Who would know? The government would be cheated out of tax money.

You don't get this kind of information sitting around watching the movie Go back to the galley and mix.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Brownie leader said: "I suppose you'll have a wonderful time in New York. Press dinners and all. I suppose they'll invite all those stewardesses, too."

I said: "I doubt it. Those married chicks just want to get off the airplane and go to bed."

She said: "That's just what I mean."

I said: "Do you realize there are only umpty-ump days until Christmas? How about the old Christmas spirit?"

She said: "Why don't they invite wives on these first flights?"

"Not enough room," I said. "They fill it up with aviation writers."

She said: "Not enough room? With 390 seats?

☆ ☆ ☆

I was flying out of Honolulu when United Air announced they were breaking the rules: stewardesses could be married.

Well, a lot of them were married — they were just keeping it quiet. Put on the uniform and hid the wedding ring in the flour can.

Off we go, into the wild blue yonder. The 747 they say will revolutionize the air business. Lower fares to bus prices. Everybody can go to Europe. (But this little pig will stay home when that time comes.)

The Brownie leader said: "You're taking your tuxedo?" I said: "Heavenly days, you don't want me to look like a slob, do you?"

Motorists' Mini-Quiz

Questions

A—What is the distance headlights are required to reflect?

B—Is 200 feet enough space to stop—if driving at the 60 m.p.h. night speed limit?

C—If involved in a reportable accident, should a driver wait until he is notified by the state to do so?

Answers

A—Headlamps must produce a light sufficient to render clearly discernable a person 200 feet ahead.

B—No—including perception, reaction, and stopping time, it would require a minimum of 350 feet—you would be "overdriving your lights" or in effect driving blind for 150 feet.

C—No—the law requires that a report be filed within 10 days with the Accident Records Bureau—the bureau is not required to notify the driver.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Long Hair Irks Many Elders

By ROBERT PETERSON

Few aspects of modern youth are so irritating to conservative oldsters as long hair. This column hears regularly from elders vexed by nephews and grandsons who insist on wearing their hair hippie-style.

Recently we quoted a letter from a young man who said he saw nothing wrong with long tresses since civilization itself was created by men from Aristotle to Ben Franklin who never went to a barber. "In fact," he wrote, "the Bible itself is full of long-haired men and Jesus Christ himself wore his hair to his shoulders."

"I must put that young man right by emphasizing that the Bible does not smile on long-haired men," writes H. C. Matzinger of Wyandotte, Mich. "As stated in Cor. I., Chapter 11, verse 14, 'Doth not even nature itself teach you that, if a man hath long hair, it is shame unto him?' "

He encloses a scholarly article by theologian Ernest Martin contending that no one knows what Christ looked like and that it is sinful for man to attempt to picture him. "The Bible expressly forbids the use of images in any form in the true worship of Christ, as stated in Exodus 20:4,5: 'Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of anything that is in heaven above.' "

The Martin article also contends that Christ was probably beardless. The earliest pictures of Christ are painted on the walls of the Catacombs in Rome. Most were painted during the Second and Third Centuries and, it might be added, outside the approval of the Catholic Church since that Church did not allow such representations at that early date. The most ancient of these is a painting of the Resurrection of Lazarus in which Christ is shown youthful and beardless, with short hair and large eyes. This picture is of great interest since it is the oldest representation of Jesus preserved anywhere and was probably sketched by individuals who were familiar with the general appearance of Christ that came by word of mouth from the apostles.

Martin contends that religious research indicates it was not until the Fourth Century after Christ that pagan influences caused Christ to be depicted with long hair and a beard. Painters at that time were intrigued by mythological gods such as Orpheus, Hermes, and Apollo, whom they depicted with long hair and beards as symbols of wisdom and power. When they painted Christ they gave him the same long hair and beards they gave these pagan figures. "They eventually evolved a portrayal of Christ which was finally sanctioned by the Catholic Church and is the very presentation of Christ that is extant in Catholic and Protestant churches today," Martin says.

The foregoing is provocative, but won't have the slightest influence on modern youths. Maybe it's just as well. As wise elders know, youth is a very brief period and men start losing their hair when youth passes. Perhaps we should let them enjoy their long hair in peace.

Lawyer Says Medina Didn't Get, Give Orders To 'Butcher'

By The Associated Press

Attorney F. Lee Bailey said Monday that Capt. Ernest L. Medina neither received nor gave any orders to "butcher anyone" during a sweep through the Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai 4 on March 16, 1968.

"The company commander," said Bailey, referring to his client, "received no orders to butcher anyone or to kill any women and children—and he issued none."

Medina, now stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga., has remained silent while men who were under his command described the alleged massacure of South Vietnamese civilians at My Lai. The leader of Medina's first platoon, Lt. William L. Calley Jr., was charged with the premediated murder of 109 persons there. No charges have been placed against Medina.

Ban Requested

The prosecution and defense in Calley's court-martial asked the U.S. Court of Military Appeals in Washington to ban any further press, radio or television accounts of the My Lai incident. The court took the petition under advisement.

Congress, meanwhile, moved to close a loophole that at present prevents prosecution of discharged servicemen for crimes they may have committed while in uniform.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., introduced a bill to permit such trials of former GIs in federal district courts.

At about the same hour, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said the Foreign Relations Committee would send two investigators to Vietnam this week to look into "the prospects for Vietnamization of the war and the general political and military situation in Saigon and the field."

Not Told Specifically

He said they were not being given specific instructions to investigate the alleged massacre of civilians, at My Lai, but weren't being told to ignore it, either.

The committee itself, Fulbright said, may look into the massacre story, which already was being investigated by the Army and will be disclosed in some detail at Calley's court-martial.

A White House spokesman said he knew of no plans at present for any judicial or outside-the-government investigation of My Lai.

The South Vietnamese National Assembly began its own investigation at Song My, the resettlement village where the survivors of My Lai now live, but reported little progress.

Largely Futile

Sen. Tran Van Don, leader of the nine-man team, said Monday's questioning was largely futile because the presence of about 25 accompanying newsmen frightened the villagers.

He said newsmen would be barred from future invesitgative tours, which he said were needed so as to "distinguish very carefully what is the truth and what is Viet Cong propaganda."

Bailey, in an interview in Columbus, Ohio, said Medina had received "an unusual order" from Lt. Col. Frank A. Barker Jr., commander of Task Force Barker. The colonel was killed three months later.

The Boston attorney said Medina briefed his company the night before the attack "to destroy the village and buildings and to destroy their livestock, an unusual order but it was given by Col. Barker, and to expect to be outnumbered and to go in shooting like hell."

Extension Likely For Project 20-20

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's Project 20-20 has been given a temporary 60-day extension, but state officials said Monday the project is expected to be extended for one full year with a $172,000 federal grant.

The 18-month, federally-funded $315,000 project, designed to coordinate and test emergency services and communications in 24 Nebraska counties, was due to expire at the year's end.

However, officials said a one-year extension will enable the project to be tested in conjunction with the state's telecommunications system which began operation last month in 24 southeastern and south central counties.

Project 20-20 is aimed at coordinating emergency services, such as fire, police, ambulance and medical, with standardized communications procedures and a computer-assisted information center.

Robert Barnett, chairman of Project 20-20 Advisory Committee, said the project is designed to compare the results of coordinated commujnication asd emergency services in the 24 "project" counties with other areas in Nebraska without coordinated emergency services.

A one-year extension of the federal grant will enable the Project 20-20 commusication system to be tested in conjunction with the state's telecommunication system (Phase I) in the 24 counties.

Completion of the study project had been delayed because of the nearly one-year delay in getting Phase I of the telecommunicaton system in operation.

Barnett also said Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann has under consideration the transfer of the administration of Project 20-20 from the Adjutant General's office to the Department of Economic Development about Jan. 1.

Omaha Bus Fare Boost Approved

A five-cent increase in bus fares in Omaha, approved earlier on a temporary basis, was approved as a permanent change by the State Railway Commission Monday.

The increase puts the general fare at 35 cents per ride, and the student and downtown fare at 20 cents per ride.

Application for the fare increase was made by the Omaha Transit Co. last July.

The vote for permanent approval Monday was 4-0. Commissioner James F. Munnelly of Omaha was absent.

Counties' Officials' Salaries Listed

Due to a composing room error, the present and proposed salary schedules of Lancaster County elected officials and the present and recently adopted schedules for Sarpy County officials were transposed in the Monday morning Star.

Listed below are the annual salaries sought for the various offices as compared with the present salaries set in 1966:

Office	Present Salary (1967-1970)	Proposed Salary (1971-1974)
Assessor	$11,000	$15,000
Treasurer	11,000	15,000
Clerk	11,000	15,000
Clerk District Court	10,500	15,000
Engineer	12,000	16,500
Supt. of Schools	12,000	16,500
Sheriff	12,000	16,500
Register of Deeds	10,000	14,500
Attorney	15,000	22,500

Shown below are the present salaries of Sarpy County officials and those adopted last week by the Sarpy County Board for the four years beginning in January 1971:

Office	Present Salary	New Salary
Attorney	$6,800	$17,500
Treasurer	6,800	13,500
Assessor	6,800	13,500
Sheriff	6,000	12,000
County Clerk	6,800	12,000
Clerk District Court	5,800	12,000
Register of Deeds	5,800	12,000
Supt. of Schools	5,600	6,000
Surveyor	6,500	10,000

Lancaster County Commissioners must set by Jan. 12 elected county officials' salaries for the four-year term beginning in January 1971.

The officials are seeking increases for their offices which average about 5% per year over the four-year period which is less than the annual increase of between seven and eight per cent given county employes for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

Abby: many more clues are needed for an honest answer

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a man who is old enough to be my father. We want very much to get married, but my parents disapprove of him because of the difference in our ages. Abby, we have been in love for over a year now and if this isn't "love" I will be satisfied with whatever it is for the rest of my life.

We enjoy the same things, and have beautiful fun together. He is kind, loving, unselfish, and I KNOW we could be happy. So how important is age? IN LOVE

DEAR IN LOVE: Age IS important, but it's not ALL IMPORTANT. You don't say how "young" you are — or how "old" he is. Neither do you give me a clue concerning how mature, experienced, independent, and self-sufficient you are. Have you dated many men? Have you ever been out in the business world? What's his track record? Past marriages? Children? Grandchildren, maybe? (Could you — and WOULD you be willing to support him if you had to?) These are all very important factors. clue me in, and I'll be able to give you an answer.

DEAR ABBY: It didn't surprise me to read in your column where a woman who had never born a child was able to nurse an adopted baby. I once saw an old range mare who had been barren for years adopt an orphan colt and raise it on milk which seemed to have come in through a miracle.

DUDLEY, AN OLD COW POKE

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Opening lead — nine of spades.

To be a really good dummy player you must treat each hand as though you had never seen its like before. The trouble with most declarers is that they fall into a pattern of play based on previous experience, which causes them to react too mechanically to commonplace situations. While this admittedly saves mental effort, it occasionally costs the contract.

Take this deal where declarer went down in four spades. He drew two rounds of trumps and led the jack of clubs, losing to East's king.

Back came the jack of diamonds, South's king losing to the ace, and West continued with the queen and another diamond. Declarer ruffed, but had to lose a heart trick to finish down one.

It is true that South was unlucky to find East with the king of clubs and West with the ace of diamonds. Had either card been favorably located, South would have made four spades with ease.

However, this does not excuse declarer's failure to bring home a contract he could have guaranteed with better play. He did not have to rely on luck to make the hand; there was a 100% sure way of approaching the play.

What South should have done after taking two rounds of trumps was to lead a low club from dummy towards his jack!

If East has the king, the best he can do is take it and return a diamond. Then, even if West has the ace of diamonds, the defenders will at best garner three tricks — a club and two diamonds. They will never take a heart trick because declarer eventually discards two hearts on the A-Q of clubs.

If West has the king of clubs, the jack will lose to the king but West will be unable to find an effective return. Dummy's A-Q of clubs takes care of one of declarer's diamond losers and South winds up losing a heart, a diamond and a club.

Arthritis Sufferers:

Wake Up Tomorrow Morning Without All That Stiffness!

New pain formula. 50% stronger than a regular aspirin. So you take it less often. Yet so gentle you can take it on an empty stomach.

Doctors must often tell people with arthritis, and its early-morning stiffness, to take a lot of aspirin. Trouble is, many arthritis sufferers get a burning upset stomach from large doses of regular aspirin. But now comes a new formula for arthritis minor pain that (1) is so strong you can take it less often and still wake up in the morning without all the pain's stiffness and (2) is so gentle you can take it on an empty stomach. This means you get both extra medication and extra protection: Extra medication because each tablet contains 50% more pain reliever than regular or buffered aspirin tablets. Extra protection because each tablet contains two antacids and is micronized (which means the tablet particles are so fine the pain reliever is more readily absorbed). Called Arthritis Pain Formula, it was specially developed by the makers of Anacin® to give arthritis sufferers an easier, less upsetting way to wake up without all that early-morning stiffness—and enjoy hours of relief.

A Merry Christmas To Little Girls

Every little girl loves a doll, and it is nice to know that at least 85 little girls will be happier this Christmas than they might have been due to the efforts of the Lancaster County Medical Auxiliary.

Collecting dolls is not a new project with the Medical Auxiliary. It has been ensuring a happy Christmas for little girls for many years and the dolls, which now have become a tradition, are turned over to Family Service for distribution.

Doll collecting day this year was on Monday when the auxiliary members, each accompanied by a doll, met at the home of Mrs. Jon Williams.

Attendants Are Named

One of the late December brides-elect, Miss Sally Ann Rebensdorf whose marriage to Robert Guenzel, Jr., will be solemnized on Saturday, Dec. 20, takes time out from a series of pre-nuptial courtesies to announce the members of the bridal entourage.

As her matron of honor Miss Rebensdorf has chosen her sister, Mrs. Tim Cox of Schuyler, and her bridesmatron will be Mrs. Kile Johnson, a sister of the bridegroom. The trio of bridesmaids will include Miss Mary Jo Pasquale, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, and Miss Jill Guenzel. Debbie Cox will be the flower girl.

Steven Guenzel will serve his brother as best man, and the groomsmen will be Jay Pansing, David Wright, Reginald Batten, and seating the guests will be Kile Johnson, Ed Hergenrader, Gene Bates and Tim Cox of Schuyler.

The wedding will take place at 10 o'clock in the morning at the Church of the Holy Trinity, Episcopal.

Also naming the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Suzanne McGill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest McGill, whose marriage to Michael Short, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Short, will be an event of Saturday, Dec. 20.

Mrs. James Herstein will be the matron of honor and Miss Shyla McGill will attend her sister as the maid of honor.

Serving Mr. Short as best man will be Jerry Lembke of Fremont and the groomsman will be James Herstein.

The wedding will take place at St. Paul's Methodist Church at 11 o'clock.

PEO Chapter

Chapter FF, PEO, will meet Thursday evening, Dec. 4 at the home of Mrs. D. R. Hughes, 2420 Sheridan Blvd. Assistant hostesses at the 8 o'clock meeting will be Mrs. G.B. Childs and Mrs. R. E. Bauers. A program entitled "Educational Fund and Cottey Junior College" will be presented by Mrs. Harold Hays.

Park Manor Lincoln Heights

1969 probably will go down in history as the year in which Indian Summer waited until the very last minute to make its appearance. Not that we're complaining, you understand, but it is just a wee bit difficult to focus one's attention on the soon-to-arrive Christmas holidays while the temperatures remain in the balmy 50s and 60s.

However, we have a feeling that the advantages of the clement weather we've been experiencing recently far outweigh the disadvantages. It provides outdoor sports enthusiasts with one last opportunity to "do their thing" before the snow flies, whether that implies touch football, hunting, or, perchance, leaf-raking. As far as mothers are concerned, warm weather allows them to permit the children to play out-of-doors — a benefit which we're sure is equally enjoyable for the youngsters.

Indian Summer also brings with it "traveling fever"—a phenomenon which was especially apparent last week when the occurrence of a holiday combined with the pleasant climate to produce an out-migration of Lincoln inhabitants.

Among those who took to the road last week were Lincoln Heights residents Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Steele and daughter, Karen, who spent a Wednesday-through-Friday holiday in Ainsworth with Mr. Steele's mother, Mrs. Rose Steele.

Incidentally, immediately prior to their Thanksgiving excursion, Mr. and Mrs. Steele were host and hostess to a number of out-of-town guests. The occasion which prompted the arrival of visitors was the marriage on Saturday, Nov. 22, of Mr. and Mrs. Steele's daughter, the former Miss Rhea Steele, and Robert L. Hinman, Jr.

The visitors included another of Mr. and Mrs. Steele's daughters, Mrs. Herbert Belkin of New York City, who served as her sister's matron of honor; Mrs. Steele's aunt, Mrs. Wilman Carlson of Columbus; her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Jensvold of Emmetsburg, Iowa; Mr. and Mr. Laird Loomis of Columbus; Mrs. Velma Rasmussen of Beatrice; and Mrs. Lois Wyman of Omaha.

Holiday visitors who arrived last Wednesday evening for a stay at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. James W. Hansen were their son and daughter-in-law, Airman and Mrs. Patrick Hansen. Airman Hansen and Mrs. Hansen, the former Miss Virginia Conradt, have most recently been stationed in Long Beach, Calif.; and at the conclusion of Airman Hansen's 14-day leave, they will continue on to his new assignment in Memphis, Tenn.

Hosts and hostess at a family dinner which took place at their Park Manor home on Sunday, Nov. 23, were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nelson and sons, Duayne and Dennis. The guests of honor at the festivities were Mrs. Nelson's sister, Mrs. Monte Buel and her son, Matt, who were visiting from their home in New Orleans, La.

Also on the guest list were Mrs. Nelson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Daharsh; her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Daharsh and children, Steve and Diane of Omaha; her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Barnett and children, Linda, Jerry, and Carol; and her aunt, Mrs. Verna Freeman.

Engagement

Of interest this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Andy Nielsen of Fremont, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Teresa Jeannette, to Harold Simmons Jr., of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Simmons of Scottsbluff.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, Dec. 20.

Miss Nielsen is a former student at Wayne State College.

Mr. Simmons attended the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary for men in journalism.

Party Compliments Jennifer Safford

Another of the attractive December brides-elect has been the incentive for entertaining during recent days. We have in mind Miss Jennifer Safford whose marriage to Stephen David will take place on Dec. 20.

Last Saturday Miss Safford was the honoree at a luncheon and shower for which Mrs. G. Robert Ross and her daughter, Miss Carolyn Chapin were hostesses

Soon-To-Be Brides Honored

A popular December bride-elect, Miss Susan Folsom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard W. Folsom, whose marriage to Arden A. Krugerud of Denver will take place on Sunday, Dec. 21, has been the incentive for several prenuptial courtesies recently.

On Friday afternoon, Nov. 28, Mrs. Richard E. Kosman was hostess at her home when she entertained at a luncheon to honor the soon-to-be-bride. The guests presented Miss Folsom with gifts for the kitchen.

Then, on Saturday evening, Nov. 29, Miss Folsom was again complimented when Dr. and Mrs. Donald F. Purvis, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hillyer and Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Haynie were hosts and hostesses at a canape party and supper at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Purvis.

There have been no idle moments for Miss Lynnelle Hempel whose marriage to Lt. Donald A. Klippert will be solemnized on Saturday, Dec. 27.

Miss Hempel has been kept busy with courtesies and one of these was last Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Lewis L. Leach and her daughters, the Misses Scarlet, Paula and Jan Leach were hostesses at their home. Twenty guests were invited for an informal afternoon during which the bride-elect was presented with a personal shower.

On Monday evening, Dec. 15, Miss Hempel will again be an honoree when Mrs. Jerry Weber and Mrs. George Osborn entertain at a linen shower at the home of Mrs. Weber.

PTA Council

The Lincoln Area Council PTA will hold a general meeting Thursday afternoon, Dec. 4, at 1:15 o'clock at the Lincoln Public Schools Administration Building, 720 S. 22nd St. The Board of Directors will meet at noon at the LPSA Building.

MEETING PLANNED

The members of St. Leger Cowley Chapter, DAR, will meet Tuesday evening for a dessert supper and program at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Chapman, with Mrs. C. A. Penton, Miss Ruthelen Sittler, Mrs. John Gradwohol and Mrs. E. V. Bogue the assisting hostesses.

The program will include the introduction of resolutions which will be considered for presentation by the state committee on resolutions at the state conference. Mrs. H. H. Selleck of Alliance is chairman of the state resolutions committee.

The remainder of the evening will be devoted to reading Christmas literature and singing Christmas music.

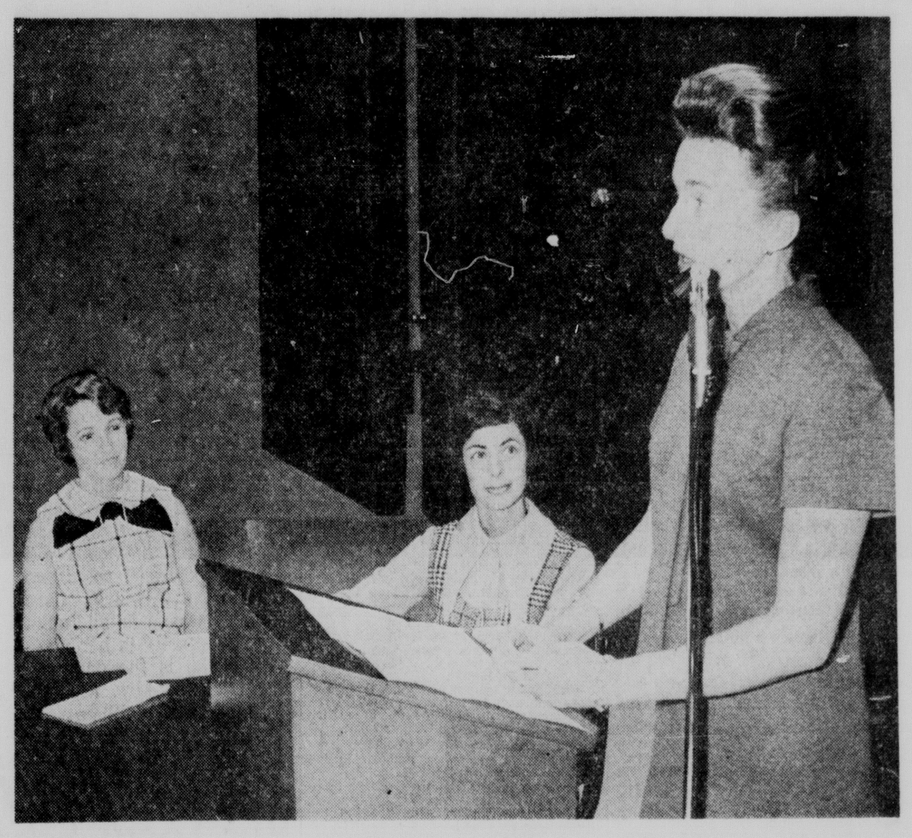
Christmas Program Planned

The Ceres Club has planned an interesting afternoon for Sunday, Dec. 7. The group will meet at the Student Activities building on the East Campus for a Christmas Carol program.

The program will be presented by the East Campus Choristers and Choraliers, under the direction of Mrs. Adelaide Spurgin.

Guest of the club will be the parents of the Choristers and the Choraliers, and interested students.

Junior League Officer, Guest



The Lincoln Junior League doesn't know the meaning of an idle moment — If it isn't a 'Victorian Christmas' at Fairview it is entertaining the director of Region X of which the Lincoln League is a member.

The Regional Director, Mrs. William V. Carey of Oklahoma City, Okla., arrived on Monday for a two-day meeting with members of the Lincoln League.

Mrs. Carey, the mother of six children, has 15 Leagues — in six states including Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Colorado, Missouri and Oklahoma, in her Region. In addition to her Junior League activities she has been active on the women's advisory board of United Fund in Oklahoma; is a member of the National Symphony Women's Committee; is a participant on the Governor's Committee on the Status of Women; is active in PTA and also in the Kappa Kappa Gamma alumnae.

We hear that the six Carey children are evenly divided between grade school, high school, and the University of Arizona.

In the picture with Mrs. Carey who spoke before a Junior League group meeting on Monday afternoon, are Mrs. Robert Dawson (left) and Mrs. Jack Davis.

Councilman Urges Court Housing Plan

Lincoln City Councilman Tom Allman Monday urged the council to explore the possibility of allowing single-family homes to meet different building requirements if they are constructed in a court.

Allman said such a plan "would help meet the city's need for low-cost housing."

He explained that homes could be bought at a lower price if they were built to a court standard rather than to the existing standard.

The councilman also said that the courts could be operated similar to mobile home courts whereby occupants would rent the land.

"This would save the cost of purchasing a lot," Allman noted.

Short Meeting

His comments highlighted a short meeting during which only routine matters were acted on by the council. There were no ordinances on third reading, and council members breezed through their agenda and completed business in 15 minutes.

Allman also requested that an amendment be prepared to set out the structural, heating, electrical and plumbing codes that mobile homes must meet. Present ordinances do not set out standards for mobile homes but do provide code standards for trailer courts.

Superintendent of Inspections Charles Seale said that there is a national code which could be used that applies only to mobile home courts.

Action Postponed

The council also postponed action until next Monday on a request by Bali Hai Corp. for a Class C liquor license at 1011 West Dawes.

Safety Director Emmett Junge said a possible zoning problem must be checked out by the legal department.

Junge explained that there had been a liquor store at that location as a non-conforming use in a single-family district. He added that a change of zone to G Local Business might be needed because a building vacant two years no longer qualifies as a non-conforming use.

He said that the building had been vacant since April 1967.

Other council action:

Petitions

—Referred change of zone application for change from A-2 to D Multiple Dwelling on property located on O St. between 44th and 46th Sts., requested by Landmark Ltd.

—Referred special permit application for construction of a community unit plan at 56th and Pioneers, requested by William Keller.

Resolutions

—Approved request of Schimmel Hotels Corp. and Premium Services Corp. for use of area beneath sidewalk surface on property at 301 So. 13th St.

—Approved request of YMCA for use of space below 301 So. 13th St.

—Approved extension of time for sidewalk bond at Bishop Heights Addn.

Ordinances, First Reading

—Introduced ordinance authorizing the city to issue revenue bonds for the construction of a State Game and Parks Commission Headquarters building.

—Introduced ordinance authorizing the city to issue revenue bonds for construction of a Nebraska Telecommunications Building.

Pending

—Indefinitely postponed creating a repaving district in H St. between 9th and 10th St.

Forum Is Slated On 'New Image For City's Core

"Wanted: A New Image for Downtown Lincoln" will be the topic of a public forum Thursday. The forum, sponsored by the League of Women Voters, will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the City Council Chamber.

A panel of local experts and interested citizens will lead the discussion. Moderator of the panel is Dr. Dean Rugg, urban geographer and chairman of the geography department of the University of Nebraska.

The panel will discuss problems connected with the radial development of the city and the maintenance of the city core as a civic, cultural and business center.

The meeting will be televised live on cable television, Channel 9, and will be repeated at 8 p.m. Thursday evening.

Police Investigate Theft Of 2 Guns

Police were investigating Monday the theft of two shotguns from a car parked in a lot at 2555 So. 48th.

The guns, valued at $170 and owned by William T. Davey of 5024 Cresthaven, brought the total of guns stolen during the past seven days to eight.

Police Inspector Robert Sawdon said that thefts of guns from vehicles always increases during hunting season and suggested that hunters remove guns from their cars when they return to the city.

Lincoln Woman Is Injured When Struck By Car

A 78-year-old Lincoln woman was hospitalized Monday after being struck by a car at 62nd and Ballard.

Listed in fairly good condition was Marie Peterson of 6102 Platte.

Police reported the woman was crossing Ballard when struck by a car turning from 62nd Street.

The driver of the car was 74-year-old William Human of 5645 Morrill.

Injuries In Fall Fatal To Rawson

Alma (AP) — James Rawson, 55, Holdrege, was killed last Friday in a fall suffered at the farm home of his brother, Harvey, in Harlan County.

Sheriff Ray Johnson said James Rawson was loading hay on a two-wheel trailer and lost his balance as the trailer started to move. He suffered a broken neck in the fall.

BABY SAVED

Surgeons at Massachusetts General Hospital in Waltham successfully performed open-heart surgery on Ann Mary Flanders, at 5 pounds, 2 ounces the smallest patient ever to undergo a cardiac operation using the heart-lung machine. Ann Mary, who was about a month old when doctors operated last March, now weighs more than 14 pounds and gets around easily in her playpen. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Flanders of Waltham.

Younger Powell Included In N.Y. Social Register

New York (AP)—Adam Clayton Powell III, son of the Harlem Democratic congressman, made the New York Social Register for 1970.

Young Powell's listing in the book published Monday was merely a mention of his marriage to registerite Beryl G. Slocum, 1960 debutante and a star of the Newport social scene.

Nevertheless, some social experts considered the fact that the Social Register recorded the marriage an indication of changing times. The marriage of socialite Timothy Fales to West Indian singer Josephine Premice was ignored in 1957.

State Aid Payment Delayed, But Local Schools 'In Black'

Even though the Lincoln school district did not receive its first 1969-70 state aid payment Monday, the district is operating in the black and is in "no danger" of having to seek short-terms loans, according to Associate Supt. Robert Den Hartog.

The first half of the $35 million state aid to schools money was to be distributed Monday. The Lincoln district had expected to receive some $1,370,000 of its total estimated $2,750,000 state aid.

M. O. Christiansen, director of state aid to public schools, said it would probably be Wednesday before the Department of Education begins to distribute the Dec. 1 payments. He said the money was still being processed by the Department of Administrative Services.

Den Hartog said Monday that the school district's financial situation had improved in the past two weeks with larger amounts of taxes being paid and with the recept Friday of some $108,000 that had been withheld from the 1968-69 state aid due to a Bellevue school district suit.

Den Hartog had warned the board of education in its Nov. 11 meeting that unless the school district received its state aid payment on time Dec. 1, the district would be faced with short-term borrowing.

However, he indicated that the $393,935 shortage reported in the general fund at the end of October had been made up and that the various school funds now were able to meet their obligations.

Fall Integration Ordered By Court

New Orleans (UPI)—The 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered 16 school districts in six southern states Monday to have integrated school systems in full operation by the 1970 fall school term.

The order demands desegregation of faculties and staff, transportation services, athletics and other extra-cirricular activities during the present school term.

Two-Year Nursing Program Approved

A two-year program qualifying a student to take the state examination for licensing as a registered nurse will be initiated in Nebraska next fall.

The State Board of Nursing has approved development of the new associate degree nursing programs at the College of St. Mary in Omaha and the University of Nebraska School of Nursing in Omaha, Executive Director Helen C. Marsh reported Monday.

She said the two schools expect to enroll their first classes of about 150 nursing student next September.

Although other states have used the shorter-term associate degree in nursing, it is new to Nebraska, Miss Marsh said.

The state board is also exploring the facilities and potential for new accredited schools of practical nursing at North Platte, Scottsbluff and Nebraska City, she said.

Hospital and community representatives have conferred with the state board and indicate they plan to file application for approval to develop such programs.

Nebraska recently licensed nearly 600 new nurses, and a survey indicates that 90 per cent of them are employed in the state, Miss Marsh said.

She said 376 new registered nurses were licensed following examinations in late August and 208 practical nurses were licensed following October exams.

She said Nebraska graduates rank in the national examinations, placing Nebraska among the top five states.

Police Group Awaiting Interested Officers

The temporary president of the proposed Lincoln Police Association said Monday the organization is ready for interested officers to join.

Officer Larry Dvorak reported that the group's constitution and by-laws have been drawn up and distributed to all officers and that further events await the interest of individual policemen.

Dvorak and several other officers are serving as a temporary board of directors for the organization, which will not be a police union, he said.

Six objectives of the association were stated when plans for the group were first announced last month.

They included providing a means for expressing officers' views or grievances, both among themselves and with police or city officials.

Other goals were fair law enforcement, an efficient department, good public relations and opposition to "any strike, walkout or slowdown on the part of its members."

Dvorak said an application for membership has been prepared, but not yet printed or distributed.

Membership fees have been set at $10, he said, and any Lincoln policeman may join.

Dvorak reported that the association will probably hold a general membership meeting "after the first of the year" to elect its official leadership.

State Road Department Buys Skid Test Device

The Materials and Test Division of the Nebraska Department of Roads has purchased a two-ton truck with water tank and recording device and a two-wheeled trailer for testing skid resistance of various types of pavement.

The truck has a 500-gallon water tank with an electronic recording device. It connects to the two-wheeled trailer which has electronic apparatus to measure the frictional force on the locked test wheels as the trailer is dragged over a test surface at constant speed.

The skid testing is controlled automatically. Once the apparatus is activated it sprays the proper amount of water around the trailer tires, automatically locks the wheels and holds them locked for the proper length of time, while recording the friction force on a graph.

The test can be made at any speed, but generally is never done at more than 60 miles per hour. Minimum standards for skid resistance quality have been set up on a nationwide basis.

If some aggregates of pavement material are found to have a low skid resistance, they will be specially treated or thrown out completely as highway surface material.

Charges Filed In Main Street Jansen Shooting

Fairbury (UPI) — The case of Johnny K. Wiens, 48, of Jansen, who has been charged with assault with intent to kill, wound or maim, was continued Monday in Jefferson County Court here until Dec. 12.

Weins had requested additional time to enter a plea.

The charges were filed after an incident about 1:20 a.m. Monday in which Wayne Lomax, 21, of Jansen, was shot in the arm.

Jefferson County Sheriff Frank Knocke said the shooting occurred on main street in Jansen in front of a tavern as the tavern was closing. The sheriff said the .22 caliber revolver in the incident was reported to be owned by Weins.

Weins was being held in lieu of $10,000 bond which was set by Judge William Panec.

Wolf Nearly Gone

Oslo (UPI) — The wolf, once the terror of lonely travelers and farmers in isolated areas of the country, is almost extinct in Scandinavia, the Norwegian Wild Life Service said. The service said there probably are only 20 to 25 wolves in Norway, Sweden and Finland.

Arguments Set In Retrial Of Man Convicted Of Appropriating Wheat

Frederal District Judge Robert Van Pelt will hear arguments Dec. 11 in the new trial of Floyd Stewart of Grant, who was convicted in September 1967 on 20 counts of converting government wheat to his own use.

The judge set the date Monday as Stewart waived his right to jury trial.

A former manager of the Kellogg Grain Co. elevator in Grant, Stewart was convicted of appropriating some 47,000 bushels of wheat during 1964. The wheat had been pledged to the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Van Pelt ordered a new trial for Stewart in July 1968 after determining that a government witness gave incorrect testimony at the original trial.

Firemen Fight Seven Fires; 3 Cause Damage To Homes

Lincoln firemen responded to seven fires during daylight hours Monday, three of them amounting to considerable damage to homes.

Fire inspectors said a mattress at 3120 Vine caught on fire from a lighted cigarette, but residents thought they had extinguished the flames. Later in the day the mattress ignited again, causing extensive smoke damage and burning the floor of the house.

At 1025 Knox, a davenport was ignited by a cigarette, doing considerable damage.

Inspectors said children accidentally caught a bed on fire at 2919 Apple, also resulting in considerable damage.

Another fire in an apartment at 1107 L resulted in minor damage while the other three blazes were grass fires.

One Came Through, One Didn't

There were two foregone conclusions in the minds of most Big Eight Skywriters when they stopped in Norman, Okla., on a warm day last September.

Most were all ready to award the Big Eight football championsship trophy to Oklahoma and the Heisman Trophy to Steve Owens.

They were half right which is a little above average for most of us. Oklahoma did not get its trophy because it did not perform on the field as expected. Owens got his because he did.

It was not a publicity campaign that won the Heisman Trophy for Steve Owens. It was carrying the ball 40 and 50 times a game for 100 and 200 yards a game that won it for him.

It's true that football heroes can be built with a publicist's pen, but Owens was not one of those. He became a football hero four yards at a time.

Even if OU sports information directors Harold and Johnny Keith had never written a word about Owens, he was going to rate headlines across the nation each Sunday morning because backs who gain 100 yards per game are few and far between.

Those who gain 100 yards per game in 17 straight games are named Steve Owens.

Owens won the Heisman Trophy despite a charge by a syndicated Chicago columnist, who charged that he should not win it because his team had just been beaten by Kansas State, 59-21.

The Chicago writer's memory was very short, forgetting that Notre Dame's Paul Hornung had won the award on a losing team over Tennessee's Johnny Majors, who had let the Vols to an unbeaten year.

Owens won despite a move in his own conference to attract votes for Colorado's Bob Anderson.

No Prima Donna

The Heisman Trophy voters didn't pick any prima donna when they picked Steve Owens. Unless you consider it evidence of a prima donna to want to get to sleep before 4 a.m. rather than talk to OU fans on the telephone.

When Skywriters visited the OU campus last September, Owens and his wife were in the process of getting their unlisted telephone number changed for the third time.

"Opr fans are great and they all mean well," Steve explained. "But after some games last season, we were up until 4 a.m. answering the telephone.

"They just wanted to talk about the game and they didn't mean to be bothersome," he added almost apologetically.

But anyone who's going to carry a ball 40-some times each Saturday has to get some sleep.

And when Owens discussed the Heisman Trophy with Skywriters, you knew he was sincere when he gave credit to his teammates and particularly to fullback Mike Harper.

"If I'm lucky enough to win it," he pointed out, "Mike deserves at least half of it. And there isn't a runner in the country who's going to gain any yards without an offensive line opening holes for him."

You also knew Steve was sincere when he looked you straight in the eye and told you there was one thing more important than the Heisman Trophy.

"Winning the Heisman Trophy would be nice," he admitted under constant questioning that kept him standing there with writers and broadcasters for nearly four hours. "But winning the Big Eight championship is more important to me."

And Steve pointed out there was one thing he enjoyed more than running with a football.

"What I really like to do is be on the punting team," he noted, "Because there you get a chance to hit someone instead of getting hit yourself."

Owens didn't get his No. 1 wish (a Big Eight championship). But the Heisman Trophy couldn't have gone to a more deserving chap. There may have been Heisman Trophies won on publicity in the past. But Steve's was won with bumps and bruises from running between the tackles for three and four yards at a time.

HUSKERS PLACE FOUR

...Dana Near Unanimous All-Big Eight Choice

Kansas City (AP) — The changing tides in Big Eight football are reflected in the 1969 Associated Press all-conference team, announced Monday.

Kansas State, which became a full-fledged challenger this season, placed four players on the 22-man first team, which is the Wildcats' best showing since they landed three players on the 11-man team back in 1953.

Oklahoma filled only two berths for one of the Sooners' worst showings in history.

Nebraska, co-champion and headed for the Sun Bowl, matched Kansas State's four selections, while Missouri, the other co-champion and going to the Orange Bowl, Colorado, which is headed for the Liberty Bowl, and Oklahoma State each placed three players.

Kansas, like Oklahoma, had but two and Iowa State only one.

Although Missouri had one less first-team pick than Nebraska and Kansas State, the Tigers put eight players on the second team — indicative of their balance.

Heisman Trophy winner Steve Owens of Oklahoma and tackle John Ward of Oklahoma State were unanimous choices, while Dana Stephenson, Nebraska defensive back, missed by only two votes in the balloting by the conference's eight coaches and 32 sports writers and casters.

Others with heavy vote totals to place them on the first team were Ken Geddes, Nebraska linebacker; Mel Gray, Missouri split end; Bill Brundige, Colorado defensive end; Emery Hicks, Kansas linebacker; Lynn Dickey, Kansas State quarterback; Mack Herron, K-State wingback, and Larron Jackson, Missouri tackle.

Rounding out the first team were tight end Jim McFarland of Nebraska; guards Ken Mendenhall of Oklahoma and Dick Melin of Colorado; center Dale Evans of Kansas, and back Bob Anderson of Colorado.

McFarland edged Oklahoma's Steve Zabel in the closest vote, keeping Zabel from repeating on the first team Melin edged Iowa State's Mike Bliss, Evans squeaked past Colorado's Don Popplewell and Anderson beat out Missouri's Joe Moore.

Others picked to the defensive unit are end Manuel Barrera of Kansas State tackles John Little and Jerry Sherk of Oklahoma State, middle guard John Stucky of K-State, linebacker Jerry Murtaugh of Nebraska and backs Dennis Poppe of Missouri and Tony Washington of Iowa State.

Besides Zabel, Kansas fullback John Riggins and tackle Jay "Rocky" Wallace of Missouri failed to repeat. Wallace was hurt all season and Missouri will seek another year of eligibility for him.

Big Eight Eyes 11th Grid Game

Kansas City (AP) — College football's pass interference rule and finances dominated Big Eight football coaches meetings Monday, the first of week-long sessions involving conference officials.

Although no announcements on action taken by the coaches or others gathered for the annual winter meetings are expected until later in the week, there were indications Big Eight coaches could go on record favoring a change in the interference rule and an 11th football game to meet rising financial costs.

Commissioner Wayne Duke said the matter of a sixth football official is "definitely on the agenda," but added, "I don't believe this conference will move ahead on it until all the conferences in the nation adopt it."

The rapid rise of the passing game in collegiate football has put added stress on officials calling pass interference and on coaches who have to defend against the pass.

"It's getting to be sort of a game of basketball past the line of scrimmage," commented John Waldorf, Big Eight supervisor of football officials and chairman of the NCAA football rules committee. Waldorf said during the season the collegiate pass interference rule is a poor one.

Coaches attending the meetings plugged for clarifying the college rule.

"Lack of clarity on what pass interference is, in my opinion, what is wrong," said Colorado coach Eddie Crowder. "The college game has changed to such a dynamic game, and has done so so rapidly, that it has put tremendous pressure on officials."

"The passing game has really made it tough on officials," said Vince Gibson, whose Kansas State Wildcats and Lynn Dickey led the Big Eight in passing.

"The rules have put a great burden on the deep backs,"' said Al Onofrio, Missouri assistant who attended the news briefing in the absence of Tiger head coach Dan Devine. "It has changed so fast that we don't have enough officials in the right places to see it (interference)."

While coaches were believed in favor of the 11th game, extending the collegiate season by one game a year, Duke indicated the conference position could be otherwise. "There are a lot of factors," the commissioner said. "This has been only a recent development. We haven't had ample opportunity to study it." The 11th game proposal will come before the NCAA convention in January in Washington.

The Pacific Eight, Western Athletic and Atlanta Coast Conferences have formally endorsed the 11th game proposal.

Staggering financial costs of college athletics have sent some of the nation's most successful departments into the red or close to it. Even a hike to $6 for football tickets has not stemmed the inflationary tide.

In a round of congratulatory comments among the Big Eight football coaches, Kansas' Pepper Rodgers drew the biggest laugh with his quip:

"I'd like to thank Johnny Majors (Iowa State) for not running up the score on us when he had us beat."

Kansas lost 44-20 to Iowa State in mid-season, then lost its final game, 69-21, to Missouri.

Huskers Squeeze By UCI

. . . CHALK PACES OPENING VICTORY OVER CALIFORNIA SCHOOL

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

Veteran LeRoy Chalk hit both ends of a one-and-one situation with 1:04 left in the game Monday night to snuff out a late University of California at Irvine rally and preserve an opening game basketball victory for Nebraska's Cornhuskers.

The Anteaters, trailing by as much as 21 points early in the second half, took advantage of a late Nebraska scoring lapse in which they picked up only 10 points in the final 10 minutes of the game, to push within one point, 74-73, with 1:23 left to play.

In fact, the Huskers didn't score at all during a three minute interval until senior Tom Scantlebury tipped in a shot with only 3:10 remaining.

Meanwhile, UCI guard Steve Sabins and Keith Bean were the mainsprings of the final Anteater effort.

Sabins hit two technical foul shots to spark the drive, then scored again on a layin. Bean hit two jumps and a free throw, then Sabin hit a pair of layins and a jump shot before Chalk's free throws allowed the Huskers to breathe easier.

Despite the 21-point Husker lead in the second half and a 15-point advantage late in the first half, neither team ever had complete control, and, at one point late in the second half, both teams lost it altogether, resulting in the aforementioned technical foul against Nebraska.

With 10:35 left to be played, Sabins drove in on a fast break with the Huskers' Marv Stewart covering.

The pair crashed as Sabins missed the shot, and in the ensuing pileup fists flew. Both benches emptied resulting in a momentary free-for-all.

Nebraska took a 45-32 halftime advantage in the contest, but was hampered by ragged play which, by the end of the game, had resulted in 25 turnovers.

The turnovers were all that kept the Anteaters from being blown out of the NU Coliseum in the first half with the Husker superior rebounding strength and 37.0 UCI shooting from the field giving Nebraska the edge.

Chalk led all scorers in the game with 24 points, while Stewart's 13 and 10 each by Scantlebury and big Chuck Jura helping him out.

Sabins had the high for UCI, getting 23, while Jeff Cunningham added 17.

Chalk also topped the Husker rebounding corps which pulled down 50 caroms altogether, compared to 35 for the visitors. Chalk finished with 17 and Jura added nine more.

Cunningham's five were the most rebounds by an Anteater.

The Huskers next take on Augustana Thursday night for their first road game of the season.

New Faces, Faster Offense May Lift Sooners From Cellar

Seventh Of A Series
By JOHN HINES
Star Sports Writer

After posting a 3-11 Big Eight basement finish last season, Oklahoma's cagers will have some new faces this year — and the result could be an upset or two that would ruin the pennant chances of a half-dozen other quintets expected to finish above the Sooners in the 1969-70 race.

"Whereas we had about six men who could play last year, I think we have eight or nine now," says coach John MacLeod.

"We plan to use a faster moving offense more suited to our players. We'll be able to run more if we can stay on the boards and that will be up to Garfield Heard, Clifford Ray, Bobby Jack, Vester Marshall and Charlie Hardin (Nebraska Western Junior College transfer).

"We should have good backcourt speed with the addition of sophomores Scott Martin and Kirby Jones to veterans Steve Ayers, Paul Cloar and Bob Wooten," MacLeod enthuses, and points out that "our outside shooting should be better and the newcomers should make us a better shooting club.

"Eliminating offensive lapses is important. Last year, we had games where we went as long as 10 or 12 minutes without a field goal.

"We will have to improve defensively, too. We are capable of having a pretty good defense because we have some good players who have potential in this area, but we'll have to keep working hard on this phase of the game."

Another shortcoming that will need correcting is lack of overall team speed, particularly up front.

Heard could be set fir a big year after being slowed most of last season with knee problems. "He's a strong rebounder and reportedly doesn't look like the same player he was last year, when the 6-6 senior averaged 13.2.

The 6-9 Ray hit at 10.5 points a game in 1968-69, while the other returning starter, Ayers, averaged 4.4. Heard and Ray will provide most of the experience on the front line, where depth is needed.

Hardin averaged over 20 points a game and grabbed 13 rebounds per contest two years ago for the Nebraska juco school, while Jack set a new Oklahoma freshman scoring record with a 20.9 average. Martin is rated a good playmaker and leader, although likewise just a soph. Andrew Pettes may be a sleeper for this club.

MacLeod pegs it right when he says, " I know we're going to have a better team than last year." Unfortunately, most of the other Big Eight teams will, too.

Wesleyan Needs Overtime To Defeat Concordia, 82-76

By RANDY EICKHOFF

Fremont — Nebraska Wesleyan narrowly squeaked by Concordia, 82-76, in overtime play Monday night in the nightcap of the opening round of the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference basketball tournament here.

During the first game, the Midland Warriors downed Dana, 79-44, playing on the Tartan floor of Midland College's new fieldhouse.

Wesleyan trailed in the contest until a Steve Peterson jump shot from 20 feet out put coach Irv Peterson's Plainsmen ahead, 31-29, with 1:25 remaining in the first half.

The Plainsman contest finished the half with a 35-31 advantage, but during the second half of play, the Bulldogs grabbed hold and stuck stubbornly, closing the gap to 69-66 with 1:59 remaining in the game.

A jump shot by Jan Lohmeyer narrowed it to 69-68, then Tom Raabe was fouled by Peterson and calmly slipped his free throw through the nets to tie the score at 70-all.

Wesleyan froze the game with 31 seconds left, gambling on a last shot, but Peterson missed with 10 seconds left in the game, sending the game into overtime.

In the three-minute overtime, John Brown broke the ice for Wesleyan with a corner jump shot. Then Bob Beecham tipped in a missed free throw to make the score 75-70 and wrap it up.

Wesleyan was hard-put throughout the game by the Bulldogs' outstanding defensive play.

Wesleyan's high scorer was John Brown with 25 points.

Midland roared off to a 79-44 win over Dana after high scorer Mike Wilcox went on a scoring spree for 10 points in seven minutes to pace the Warriors to their win.

Wilcox was the sparkplug for the Midland team, bringing it from behind with 9:13 left to play in the first half when he shut out Bob Stoll of the Vikings and successively hit jump shots from 20 and 25 feet out.

NU Frosh In Debut Tonight

Nebraska's freshman basketball team draws a tough opening assignment Tuesday night as coach Rex Hughes takes his club to Nebraska Western, weekend winner of the state junior college tourney.

The yearlings will warm up for their road opener Monday night with a 20-minute scrimmage preceding the varsity home opener against the University of California at Irvine. Tipoff for the intrasquad game is set for 6:15 p.m. and the varsity encounter is set for 7:35.

Hughes will open with 6-6 Ambrose Ratcliff and 6-5 Tony Riehl at forward, 6-6 Cal Christline at center and 6-2 Tom Gregory and 6-0 Randy Watts at guard against the unbeaten Scottsbluff club Tuesday night.

"We've tried to polish up our offense and get things together since our game with the varsity," Hughes says.

"Our scouting reports tell us that Nebraska Western shoots well and likes to run. We'll have to play great defense and control the tempo to win."

The Cougars defeated Fairbury, 83-54; McCook, 96-88, and York, 85-69, last weekend.

'If's' Important To NU Matmen

. . . HEAVYWEIGHT MISSING

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

It's pretty hard to find much hope after finishing last in a conference full of wrestling powerhouses, but Nebraska wrestling coach Orval Borgialli is trying.

"They've really worked hard and we're in pretty good shape," Borgialli says of his wrestlers. "If we don't sustain any injuries or anything, we should be pretty tough."

The Huskers, who finished eighth last year with a 4-9 record in the Big Eight, are again up against the likes of Iowa State, the defending national champion; Oklahoma State, currently ranked third; Oklahoma, rated sixth; and Colorado, also in the nation's top 20.

Borgialli has eight lettermen back from last year's club, but still has no heavyweight and three wrestlers he had counted on to help out are either injured, ill or scholastically ineligible.

In spite of it all, he feels improvement is near.

"Of course, we hope to improve. We should do pretty good this year. We've got some pretty fine athletes. But there are a lot of 'ifs,' he says.

One is IF two-time state high school champion Bobby Orta from Lincoln High can gain his scholastic eligibility to compete second semester.

Another is IF Tacoma, Wash. standout Bill Knipple, a freshman, recovers sufficiently from a broken wrist which has sidelined him since he reported for practice.

And yet another is IF sophomore letterman Rick Tinkerman can regain his form after he recovers from a case of mononucleosis.

"Our strength lies from about the 150 to the 190 weight classes," Borgialli says. "We're going to be putting a capable kid in there in every weight class except heavyweight. We're not just putting in warm bodies."

The heavyweight division might be filled by letterman Alan Murphy, a junior from Rockford, Ill., who is now challenging Gary Munson, another letterman, for the 167-pound berth.

"Murphy wants to wrestle heavyweight," Borgialli says. "I don't know if I'm going to let him yet, but he's tough enough that he would whip anyone else we might try there right now."

Help might also come from the Nebraska football teams.

"A couple members of the freshman football team have indicated they might come out," Borgialli says. "But they haven't shown up yet."

One of the top returnees from last year's team is Joe George, a sophomore, wrestling in the 158-pound division. "As a freshman George won more matches than many seniors do," Borgialli says.

Other lettermen are Keith Burchett (190), James Haug (177), Tom Meier (150), and Doug Erickson (134), a junior from Lincoln Northeast.

Holding down the 118-pound position in Orta's absence is another Lincoln High product, Monte Halstedt, who was runner-up in the state meet last year.

"I think a lot of how we'll do depends on how our kids react . . . IF they can get over the psychological hurdle of being able to whip somebody," Borgialli says.

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Colorado's 10th-ranked Buffaloes breezed to an opening game victory over the Air Force Academy Monday night, 81-58, in college basketball.

The only time the Air Force had the lead was in the opening few seconds as Gregg Popovich dropped in a free throw.

From then on, Colorado relied on the outside shooting of Gordie Tope and Cliff Meely's board work to take the victory.

Tope shot better than 50 per cent from the floor as he finished with 22 points, high for both teams. Meely had 16 points but there was no other Colorado player in double figures. Ron Weilert led the Falcons with 17.

Buff Coach Sox Walseth used his reserves through most of the second half and all but two Colorado players scored.

It was the 13th consecutive home court victory for Colorado.

Creighton Opens With 84-62 Win

Omaha (UPI) — Creighton made Eddie Sutton's debut as a major college basketball coach pleasant Monday night as the Bluejays defeated Wisconsin State of Oshkosh, 84-62.

Creighton's much taller team dominated the boards as the Jays took a 34-24 halftime lead. They stretched the margin to 20 points midway through the second half.

Creighton led in rebounds 60-24 with 6-10 Cyril Baptiste the leader with 16. Seven-foot Nate Stephens had 14, as did 6-6 Dennis Bresnahan.

Baptiste led all scorers with 25 points. Stephens had 17, the same as Ken Ver Gowe, who led Wisconsin State.

The game attracted 6,028 to Omaha's Civic Auditorium, where Creighton will meet Kansas State of the Big Eight Friday night.

Pairings Set For District

The pairings for the three most important intra-city high school basketball games of the season have been determined.

The four local Class A schools, placed in one district for a state tourney berth, held a drawing Monday under the supervision of Ralph Beechner, public schools athletic director.

Lincoln High and East will tangle in the opening game Thursday, March 5, with defending district champ Northeast and Southeast set to clash the following night.

The winners will meet, for the right to enter the state tournament, on Sat., March 7.

All games will start at 7:30 at Pershing Auditorium.

Georgia Won't Go Along With Retreat Suggestion

Compiled From News Wires

The University of Georgia has no intention of withdrawing from its football date with Nebraska in the Sun Bowl Dec. 20, according to Joel Eaves, Georgia's athletic director.

The statement responded to a published editorial in the Columbus, Ga., Enquirer Monday suggesting that Georgia bow out of the game in favor of Louisiana State University.

Georgia was defeated by Georgia Tech 6-0 Saturday and finished its regular season with a 5-4-1 mark. LSU posted a 9-1 season.

Eaves said Georgia was extended an invitation by the Sun Bowl to play the El Paso, Tex., game, accepted the invitation and intends to keep the commitment and play the game.

"Some of us who have loved the University of Georgia and who have supported Vince Dooley's Bulldogs longest and hardest can't help but be a little embarrassed at the way the post season bowl picture has come into focus," the editorial said.

"Our disappointment," the editorial said, "is not over the 5-4-1 record the Bulldogs have compiled this year. No team can be a champion every year.

"The offense-shy Bulldogs plainly are not a bowl-caliber team this year, and it is painful that Georgia prematurely presumed they would be."

The Enquirer suggested that since LSU, with its 9-1 record, has been denied a bowl bid, "begging off" the Sun Bowl "would be the gentlemanly thing for Athletic Director Joel Eaves and Coach Vince Dooley to do."

New-Look Jayhawks Triumph

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Dave Robisch and Dave Stallworth highlighted the new look of the Kansas Jayhawks as they defeated Marshall University Monday night, 96-90 in a college basketball opener.

Robisch, a junior ht a career high 36 points, while Stallworth, a sophomore, added 27. Robisch's previous high was 28 last year against Kansas State. Marshall's top scorer was Blaine Henry with 24.

Coach Ted Owens, starting his sixth season, promised pressure defense and a faster moving offense for his Jayhawks. In his first five seasons, Kansas posted a 105-31 record.

The Jayhawk output against Marshall surpassed Kansas' highest scoring mark last season, which was 94 against Iowa State.

Marshall held a small lead through much of the early going, although the score was knotted five times. Kansas forged ahead to stay with slightly more than 12 minutes left in the first half.

Kansas has not lost a home opener since 1935 when the Jayhawks were defeated by Kansas State in an experimental game with 12-foot baskets and field goals counting three points.

Kearney Wins Opener Easily

Kearney (AP)—Kearney State, without the services of its starting center, led nearly all the way in handing Fort Hays State of Kansas a 116-90 basketball defeat in the season's opener for both schools.

Starting center Dan Wilkin, a 6-6 pivotman who averaged 20 points a game last year, will be sitting out the first three weeks of the season because of a knee injury.

The Antelopes hit 62% from the field and 20 of 25 and the gift line behind the 23 point shooting efforts turned in by Jerry Wiley, the only senior on the squad, and Jerry Karnetz. In all six of the eight players for Kearney turned in double-figure scoring. Fort Hays Daryl Stockvill and Leneal Locke had 19 each for the visitors.

Venable Hits 31 For KSU

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Jerry Venable scored 31 points and grabbed 19 rebounds, both career highs for him, leading Kansas State to a 99-63 victory over outmanned Indiana State in the basketball opener for both teams Monday night.

Venable, a 6-5 senior who last season as a transfer from Ferrum, Va., Junior College led the Wildcats in scoring with a 14.8 average, hit a torrid streak in the last six minutes of the first half to break it open for Kansas State.

He got 18 of his points in that span and hit 8 of 10 free throws during a two-minute stretch as K-State widened its lead from 38-26 to 47-26. The Wildcats had jumped ahead 11-3 and never were in trouble.

Cyclones Crush Washburn, 75-49

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State opened its basketball season with an overpowering 75-49 victory over Washburn here Monday night.

The Cyclones were paced by seniors Bill Cain, with 21 points, and Dave Collins, who added 20.

The output by Cain gave him 1,004 points, making him the fifth player in school history to reach the 1,000-point plateau. Cain also pulled off 19 rebounds to give the Cyclones a 53-28 advantage on the backboards.

Tigers Edge Arkansas

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Missouri overcame cold shooting in the first half to turn back Arkansas, 58-51, in a non-conference basketball opener for both teams here Monday night.

The Tigers of the Big Eight Conference were rattled by the Razorbacks' zone defense, and were held to seven points in the first 10 minutes in the first half.

Missouri went scoreless for 5 minutes and 6 seconds during one stretch midway through the first half as Arkansas built a 14-7 lead, its biggest of the game.

Sophomore guard Almer Lee, hitting on mostly long jumpers, led the Razorbacks with 18 points. Missouri's Don Tomlinson scored 18 points and teammate Dave Pike added 16.

Doug Johnson's hook shot with 7:32 remaining gave Missouri a 46-44 lead, and the Tigers never trailed again.

The game was tied 13 times, 10 in the second half.

Baseball Draft Sees Change Of Tactics

. . . PITCHER TOP CHOICE

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. (AP) — Baseball's annual player draft saw a change in tactics Monday with the clubs concentrating on selecting new faces instead of going after retreads.

Nineteen players were selected by Major league clubs, 15 in the first round — at a cost of $475,000. Very few of the names were familiar.

Seven clubs went into the draft with full 40 man rosters and only two of the remaining 17 — Oakland and San Diego passed up the opportunity of picking up new talent at $25,000 per head.

The No. 1 pick was Larry Staab a left-handed pitcher selected by the Cleveland Indians off the Spokane roster. Staab was 13-11 in the Pacific Coast League with a 3.79 earned run average last year.

Later in the first round, Spokane lost another player when the Chicago Cubs selected Cleo James, an outfielder. James batted .327 third best in the PCL last season — and stole 46 bases.

The players drafted:

Cleveland — Pitcher Larry Staab from Spokane of the Pacific Coast League.

Montreal — Pitcher John Strohmayer from Des Moines of the American Association.

Seattle — Outfielder Roy Foster from Tidewater of the International League and catcher Don Bryant from Oklahoma City of the Pacific Coast League.

Chicago White Sox — Pitcher Virle Rounsaville from Eugene, Ore. of the Pacific Coast League.

Kansas City — Second baseman Pat Locanto from Eugene and pitcher Vern Wright from Louisville of the International League.

Houston — Pitcher Jack DiLauro from Tidewater of the International League.

Los Angeles — Pitcher Jose Pena from Indianapolis of the Pacific Coast League.

St. Louis — Shortstop Milt Ramirez from Rochester of the International League.

Washington — Second baseman Chris Krebs from Louisville of the International League and pitcher Mike Whitson from Louisville.

Boston — Infielder-outfielder Jim Derrick from Toledo of the International League.

San Francisco — Catcher Mike Sadek from Denver of the Pacific Coast League.

Chicago Cubs — Infielder-outfielder Cleo James from Spokane of the Pacific Coast League and pitcher Jim Cosman from Tidewater of the International League.

Minnesota — Pitcher John Haydel from Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League.

Atlanta — Catcher Hal King from Louisville of the International League.

Baltimore — Outfielder Tom Shopay from Syracuse of the International League.

AAU Has Interest In International Sports Programs

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — Amateur Athletic Union officials will try to beef up interest in international sports competition during the AAU convention that opened here Monday.

Among items to be pushed during the four-day confab are another European track and field schedule similar to the one earlier this year.

AAU president Jesse A. Pardue of Houston said 78 committees function at the convention including 25 directly connected with sports events.

Four world track and field records and 11 in swimming will be up for certification by AAU members.

More Tire Test Failures Reported

Washington (AP) — Tires certified by four more leading manufactureres as meeting government safety standards failed 24% of federally sponsored tests conducted by independent laboratories, the Transportation Department said Monday.

A 25% failure rate was reported by the department last week in another batch of tests on major tire brands.

This week's test results involved Armstrong, Mansfield, Sieberling, and Uniroyal. Additional Armstrong brands were included in the earlier report, along with tires manufactured by Firestone, Goodyear and B. F. Goodrich.

The new data showed 22 failures in 90 tests of various brands and sizes of Armstrong, Mansfield, Seiberling, and Uniroyal tires.

Five Measurements

Each test involved five separate machine measurements of these government tires safety standards: endurance, high-speed performance, strength, rim adherence, and accuracy of labeling. The department counts a failure in any of the five separate standards as a failure for the entire test.

The 24 and 25% failure rates compared to 6.1% on all 1,470 tire tests conducted by independent laboratories conducted for the government to date.

The department emphasized the test reports are only one factor in determining compliance with the 1966 auto-safety law. A favorable report does not establish safety, and an unfavorable one does not mean violation.

The tire industry has sought to downgrade the significance of the tests.

6 Tests, 6 Failures

The highest failure rate belonged to Seiberling's Supreme NYTEX 150 — six in six tests of three sizes of the tire.

Armstrong was next with three failures in 13 tests. The failures involved Premium Cornet, Five Star, and PT 120 brands.

Mansfield showed four failures involving the Premium and Ultra-Premium brands in 18 tests.

Tests of Uniroyal tires found nine failures involving Laredo, Tiger Paw, and Tiger Paw Wide Oval brand in 53 tests.

In addition, brands manufactured by Goodyear, Lee McCreary, Michelin, Mohawk, Pirelli, Semperit, and Vredestein were reported failure-free in 27 tests.

Winner Loses; Duel Doesn't Settle Problem

East London, South Africa (AP) — Mtina Ngqine accused Bodi Thandanto of stealing a cooking pot.

They settled the dispute at dawn with battle-axes. Thandanto won, still insisting he had not taken the pot.

The judge gave him 18 months for manslaughter.

President Plans News Conference For This Monday

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon will meet with reporters Monday for his first full-scale news conference since Sept. 26. It will be open to live coverage on national television and radio.

In announcing the news conference, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler declined to speculate whether the President might have any announcement to make. But indications were Nixon would follow his usual format of throwing the conference open to questions immediately.

This will be the President's eighth general session with reporters since he took office Jan. 20. The time of day was not immediately announced.

KING OF CHECKERS

Newell W. Banks, 82, of Detroit, started playing checkers when he was 5 years old. We won the 11-Man Ballot Championship in 1916 and has retained the title ever since. During World War I, while in the Army, he took on his whole outfit in a checker marathon and won $35,000, which he later returned. Here he is playing for his 54th championship.

Statue Of Churchill Is Unveiled

London (AP) — A striking bronze statue of Sir Winston Churchill in his old debating stance — hands on hips and jaw thrust forward — was unveiled at the House of Commons Monday.

Lady Clementine Spencer-Churchill, Sir Winston's 84-year-old widow, unveiled the statue before the assembled ranks of Britain's political leaders in the lobby of the chamber that Churchill dominated on and off for half a century.

"I am a child of the House of Commons," Sir Winston once said.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson, opposition Conservative Party leader Edward Heath and other dignitaries were present for the unveiling of the 7-foot-5 statute.

There were gasps of surprise as the lifelike statue appeared. Lady Spencer-Churchill stood silent for a few moments looking at the tribute to her late husband.

The statue is the work of Oscar Nemon, 60-year-old Yugoslav-born sculptor, and stands on a 3-foot-5 plinth placed beside the Churchill Arch in the members' lobby of the House of Commons.

Opposite stands a statute of Churchill's old friend of World War I days, Prime Minister David Lloyd George.

Speaker Horace King said Churchill's statue would "inspire through the years those who come to serve parliamentary democracy, which we lived to protect and which so many, including 21 members, died to preserve."

Arms Overruns Of $16.2 Billion Listed

Washington (AP) — Mammoth cost overruns of $16.2 billion in the military's 34 major weapons programs have been reported to Congress by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

The figure includes the C5A cargo plane and Minuteman missile overruns disclosed earlier this year and overruns in the Navy shipbuilding program that Navy Secretary John H. Chafee said could top $1 billion.

Those three items make up only a small part of the total.

And Laird, disclosing the overruns in House appropriation subcommittee testimony released Monday, said he expects the $16.2 billion figure to grow larger.

'Not Convinced'

"I am still not convinced that we have uncovered all the deficiencies in our current programs," Laird told the subcommittee, "and we will continue to examine them and keep the Congress informed."

But while subcommittee members referred to the figure as cost overruns, Laird used the term "cost growth," saying much of the cost increase is the result of inflation and changes ordered by the military, rather than poor estimates and other avoidable increases.

The C5A's $1.5 billion and Minuteman's $478 million overruns disclosed at congressional hearings this year were dwarfed by the two largest items on Laird's list: $4.46 billion for the F111 swingwing jet bomber and $3.2 billion for an MK48 torpedo program that has been accumulating overruns since it started in 1964.

$1 Billion Exceeded

Other weapon programs on Laird's list exceeding $1 billion in overruns are $1.66 billion for an Air Force F15 jetfighter, $1.2 billion for the submarine-fired Poseidon missile and $1.05 billion for the Short-Range Attack Missile, an air-to-ground missile.

Laird called the shipbuilding program "one of our major problem areas." Navy Secretary Chafee told the subcommittee the deficit now is estimated at $800 million to $850 million and said an undetailed potential problem could add $350 million more.

Chafee and Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, said the deficits cover 125 ships authorized over 13 years.

Measures Taken

To meet the deficit, Chafee said, the Navy has canceled $200 million worth of projects, deferred $104 million worth of shipbuilding to later years and is asking an appropriation of $167 million.

He said the remaining deficit can be put off to later years.

In wide-ranging testimony Laird and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, also said:

—The $2.5 billion limit Congress set this year on U.S. aid to free world forces in Vietnam and local forces in Laos and Thailand "in future years could severely restrict" Vietnamization of the war. They said the aid this year is $2.2 billion.

—The U.S. cost of the Vietnam war is an estimated $23.2 billion this fiscal year, down from $28.8 billion in fiscal 1969.

—The Pentagon's touted "two-and-a-half war" capability was never realistic and U.S. defense are now geared to handle one-and-a-half wars — a major war and a minor conflict at the same time, not counting the Vietnam war.

—West Germany and the United States have under active consideration abandonment of the trouble-ridden and costly — nearly $1 million a unit— Main Battle Tank 70. But it still is hoped that the tank can be scaled down to cut costs.

Tools Stolen

The Auto Hospital at 2212 O St., was the victim of a burglary Monday morning in which thieves stole approximately $260 worth of tools.

U.S. BLAMED

In a Rome press conference Monday, Georgis Mylonas, former Greek education minister who fled his country last September, accused the U.S. of exerting "strong pressure" to prevent Greece's expulsion from the 18-nation Council of Europe.

Rev. Kellogg 'Very Critical'

The Rev. Richard Kellogg, 79, of 1745 So. 48th, who was injured in a one-car collision Thanksgiving night, remained in "very critical" condition Monday night at Bryan Memorial Hospital, officials said.

The accident occured when the Kellogg car, eastbound on Superior, crashed into the Salt Creek Bridge.

Rev. Kellogg's wife, Mrs. Elda Kellogg, 80, died in the accident.

Robert Sandberg Named President Of Hiram Scott

Scottsbluff (AP) — Robert E. Sandberg was named president of Hiram Scott College Monday night by Dr. C. N. Sorensen, chairman of the board of trustees.

Sandberg had served as vice president for finance for the school since 1965.

He was selected by a presidential research committee composeed of faculty, trustee and students to succeed Dr. Anthony Marinaccio, who resigned earlier this year. He had served as acting president since the resignation.

He has had ten years expreience in college administration work and prior to that was a division manager for a gas-electric company for a dozen years.

The Sandbergs have two daughters.

Downtown Banks Report Clearings

Lincoln's three downtown banks reported Monday that bank clearings for November totaled $79,953,454.45.

This compares with $71,781,739.82 for the same month in 1968.

The total for this year, January through November, is $898,685,858.57.

Denney, Says Most Dental Care Seems Aimed In Wrong Direction

Rep. Robert V. Denney told members of the Lincoln District Dental Association Monday night that "over $4 billion a year is spent on dental care and the greatest bulk (is spent) on restoration rather than prevention of tooth decay and deterioration."

"Proper dental care cannot be obtained when over 75% of dentists indicate that they have enough patients or must turn them away," Denney said.

"One way to combat this manpower crisis is by a change in emphasis by dentists, the public and the government," he said.

"It would appear that a greater effort should be made to prevent dental destruction and not just to restore dental wholeness," Denney said.

"Medicare is not feasable because the cost of administering it is too expensive," he added.

Denney concluded by saying that "private and public health care programs should put primary emphasis on working with the youth on their dental problems."

U.S.-To-Russia Direct Telephone Cable Link Open

New York (AP) — Direct cable and overland telephone service between the United States and the Soviet Union began Monday in a three-month experiment.

Previously, telephone calls between the two countries were transmitted by a high-frequency radio circuit subject to intermittent fading.

The long lines department of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said the new system was installed in cooperation with the Telecommunications Ministry of the Soviet Union. Officials of both services hope the 90-day trial will lead to a permanent arrangement.

Calls to the Soviet Union now will be routed to London and from London to Oslo by cable, then over land lines to Helsinki, Leningrad and Moscow.

Cost of the calls remains the same — $12 for the first three minutes on weekdays and $9 at night and on Sunday.

Mediation OKd By Rail Firemen

Washington (UPI) — The nation's railroads and the diesel locomotive firemen agreed Monday night to submit their longstanding issue to mediation in January, precluding a nationwide strike as early as Thursday.

The contract for the United Transportation Union expires at midnight Wednesday.

T.V. TARGET

By LES RYMAN

Did you know that the real reason young people are wearing wild colors today is because of black-and-white television. That's right. During their formative years the little ones were watching black and white TV. They suffered a bad case of "color deprivation." And now that they're picking their own clothes, they reach for the most vivid colors. But the brilliantly colored clothes favored by youth now won't be with us when the present generation of kiddies pass adolescence, because they're being brought up with color television and are being deprived of black and white.

For the finest in color television, come in to DUFFIELD RADIO TV CLINIC, 1617 So. 17th, 423-2747. We are Lincoln's largest exclusive ZENITH dealer, having been in this location for over 23 years. We're open daily from 8:00 a.m. 'til 5:30 p.m., Thursdays 'til 9 and Saturdays 'til noon.

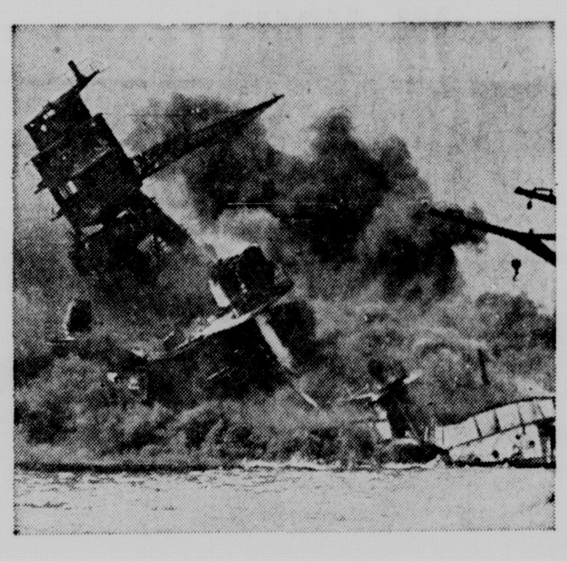
TAKEO YOSHIKAWA:
THE JAPANESE SPY WHO
FINGERED PEARL HARBOR



Twenty-eight years ago December 7 at 7:40 a.m., a Japanese air armada of 353 planes bombed into shambles U.S. military and naval installations on the island of Oahu. Insuring the success of the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor was master spy Takeo Yoshikawa, then 29. From Kyoto, Japan, PARADE's Lloyd Shearer reports an exclusive interview with Yoshikawa, in December 7 issue Sunday Journal and Star.

Stocks Tumble To Sharp Loss

New York (AP) — The stock market kicked off the month of December by tumbling to a sharp loss Monday, with declining stocks outnumbering advances by more than 2 to 1.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials — a measure of bluechip stock performance — dropped 7.26 to 805.4, its lowest point in more than 7 weeks.

And the Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell to its lowest point for the year, off 1.8 at 278.7 with both industrials, off 3.1 at 416.7, and rails, off .9 at 142, reaching their lows for the year as well. Utilities were off .8 at 134.3.

"Investors are frustrated by mounting indications the government's squeeze on tight money is not going to relax," said Monte Gordon of Bache & Co.

"The market is being buffeted by official statements that monetary restraint is going to be a way of life for some time."

The market began the day on a happier note, but prices soon began to drop.

The setback, a continuation of recent sessions, was on a broad front. Among the 1,592 issues traded on the Big Board, 947 declined, 420 advanced, and 225 were unchanged. There were only 8 new highs for the year, compared with 130 new lows.

Volume was 9.95 million shares, less than the recent 10-and 12-million-share sessions. Some analysts said it was evidence that institutional investors were waiting on the sidelines for positive developments.

The New York Stock Exchange Index of some 1,200 common stocks lost .37 to close at 52.12.

Cattle Prices Fully Steady

Omaha (AP) — Cattle prices were fully steady here Monday as trading retained most of the briskness apparent in last week's final session, particularly in the fed steer and heifer divisions.

Feeders, although in limited supply, were firm.

The live trade was backgrounded by a slow and dull dressed beef market. Not enough transactions had been completed through mid-afternoon to establish a price pattern in Chicago.

A load of high-choice and prime 1,040 lb. steers collected 28.85 to head the price list here.

Around four loads of toppy well-finished 950-975 lb. heifers drew 27.75.

Beef cows bulked to 20.00.

In the feeder division choice 525-675 lb. stock steers were turned at 31.00-33.50.

A small showing choice 525-650 lb. stock heifers were noted 28.00-29.50.

Choice-prime 350-425 lb. steer calves brought 37.50-39.00.

Hog prices were steady to 25 lower, some late sales off 50 cents as supplies here ran to just under 10,000 head.

Bulk 190-240 lb. butchers sold 26.75-27.75 with one consignment of around one hundred head at 28.00.

Sows under 600 lbs. sold 21.25-23.50.

Lambs were 25-50 higher, ewes steady.

Choice-prime No. 1 to fall shorn pelts moved at 27.75-28.50.

Corn, Soybean Prices Decline

Chicago (AP) — Corn futures declined more than 1 cent a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Monday and soybeans futures came under profit taking to close nearly 1 cent lower.

Trade was relatively light, except for the opening and closing activity. Commission house interest was thin.

Commercial hedging was active on the opening in the corn pit and prices quickly eased more than ½ cent. Prices held at this level until the closing minutes when new selling again entered the pit. The December option was under particular pressure.

At the close, wheat was ½ cent a bushel lower to 1⅛ cents higher, December 1.42¼; corn was ½ to 1¼ lowwer, December 1.17½; oats were ⅛ to ⅜ higher, December 56⅞ cents; rye was unchanged to 1 cent lower, December 1.08¾; and soybeans were ⅛ to ⅜ lower, January 2.43¼.

Tiemann Would Use Guard If Necessary

West Point (AP) — Gov. Norbert Tiemann told a Town Hall meeting here Monday night that he would order out the National Guard, if necessary, to keep the peace in the Iowa Beef Packers labor dispute.

In answer to a question as to what was being done to protect both sides in the dispute, the governor said: "If it is necessary to bring the National Guard in, we will, but we hope it isn't necessary."

Iowa Beef has plants at West Point and Dakota City in Nebraska.

Questions submitted by the some 250 attending centered mainly around taxes, highways and crime.

The residents were told that State Highway 32, an east-west road through West Point, would have "high priority" for improvement in 1970. The highway, a part of the state system, is gravelled west of the city and residents questioned the probability it would receive hard surfacing in the near future.

Commenting on questions of crime and dope control, the governor asked how many in the audience would recognize marijuana growing along highways and in farm fields.

At a showing of hands by some two-thirds of the audience, the governor joked: "I wondered if they have been harvesting a lot of marijuana in Cuming County?"

POLICE PROBE UPSET AUTOS

Lincoln police are investigating an incident in which two Volkswagens were overturned at East High School Monday night.

Livestock Auction
Sale Every Wednesday
Sale starts at 11:30am for hay; 11:45am for hogs. Sheep, baby calves and cattle immediately following in order. Consign your livestock early.
We had a very good run of livestock for auction Wednesday, Nov. 26, 1969 with prices mostly higher. Butcher hogs topped at $26.85, sows at $23.10, feeder pigs at $14.50 to $17.50 and market boars at $18.50 to $22.25. Baby calves sold very well with most kinds from $25.00 to $60.00 and some heavier beef types by the head at $108.00 to $117.00. The light weight calves (250-400 lb.) weighed up at $32.50 to $38.50 and the 400-650 lb. steers and heifers at $27.50 to $35.50. Heavier weight steers and heifers ranged from $23.50 to $28.50 and holsteins (all weights) $24.50 to $26.85. Slaughter cows (all grades) ranged $16.50 to $20.50; stock cows at $170.00 to $210.00, cows with calves at $240.00 to $270.00 and market bulls at $22.50 to $23.75. Alfalfa and brome hay at 45c to 60s and choice prairie hay at 77½c.
We will have a good run of livestock for Wednesday, Dec. 3 with 150 to 200 head of feeder cattle already consigned (these will be fresh from the farm, weighing 425 lb. to 550 lb., mostly white face and black white face steers and heifers.) Also some real good Hereford cows with calves at side and 30-40 Wyoming Hereford stock cows, just the right kind for stalk or milo fields. Also numerous other consignments of first quality cattle, hogs of all classes, sheep and hay.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A X Y D L B A A X R
to L O N G F E L L O W

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
